

Nation Watches as Fox Cities Prepare Appliance Drive

Gov. Thomson to Speak at Kick Off Breakfast Launching Sales Program

The eyes of a nation will focus on the Fox Cities next week when leaders of government and industry meet in Appleton to kick off a locally-conceived campaign designed to stimulate buying in all major appliance lines.

Headed by Gov. Vernon Thomson, the delegation will convene at the Appleton Elks club at 7 o'clock Wednesday morning to touch off a 10-day sales event: "Best Appliance Values. Better Buy Now."

The sale itself begins with the opening of store hours next Thursday and will continue through two weekends, ending May 17. Sandwiched in between will be at least two contests for consumers with major appliances as awards, plus special prices on every item in the extensive appliance line.

National Importance
The campaign has national importance in that it will be watched closely by leaders of business, government and industry in every section of the country as a tool to be employed in metropolitan areas where the dark clouds of recession have obscured business activity.

Sponsored by Fox Cities appliance dealers and their manufacturers and distributors, the "Better Buy Now" program idea originated with a group of distributors serving the Fox Cities.

A preliminary meeting was held early in April at the Schroeder hotel in Milwaukee where appliance dealers and distributors were sounded out on the possibilities of such a campaign. Subsequent meetings in Appleton uncovered an intense interest and enthusiasm for the promotion.

The Fox Cities were selected to test the event since distributors believed the market here provided the ideal climate.

GM Would Retain Present Contract

Detroit — General Motors' chief negotiator said today the company is standing pat on its proposal to the United Auto Workers union to keep in effect wage increases and fringe benefits provided in the present contract.

Louis G. Seaton, vice president in charge of the personnel staff, told a news conference "we do not have any other offer under development."

"We have an offer on the table," he said, "and that's where we are resting."

Seaton denied that GM's proposal to extend for two years benefits in the present contract amounted to keeping the status quo. He estimated it would cost the company a minimum of $140 million for two years.

Father Accused of Beating Child to Death

Hartford, Conn. — A 20-year-old father was accused today of beating his 18-month-old daughter to death because she cried while he was watching television.

Charles W. Carman, Jr., was arraigned on a murder charge in police court after Detective Capt. Joseph P. McDonald said, an autopsy showed the baby died from a beating last night.

Carman was held without bond at the order of Judge Joseph J. Fauliso. The case was continued to May 29 for further investigation.

Police said Carman, who is unemployed, told them he became annoyed at the crying of his daughter, Donna Lucia.

Loses Family as Home Is Hit by Landslide

Reggio Calabria, Italy — Pasquale Fedele stayed late at the bar last night in the little village of Calanna. As he drank, a landslide crashed down on his home and his next-door neighbor's.

Rescue workers dug out four persons alive, but found Fedele's wife, mother-in-law and five children dead. One child perished in the other house.

Texas Regions Threatened by Rising Streams

Police Order 2,500 To Leave Homes but Most Refuse to Move

Dallas — Rivers and streams, swollen by eight days of rain, surged across broad sections of north and east Texas today, but an expected crest on the Trinity at Dallas failed to materialize.

Police ordered some 2,500 persons evacuated from South Dallas last night, but all but a few dozen families refused to move.

The Trinity hit 33.7 feet this morning and continued to rise slowly. That was 3.7 feet above flood stage but well below the major flood stage of 38 feet.

Schools were closed in several east Texas areas and some operators abandoned their oil wells.

Shelters Opened
Water seeped into homes in the Roosevelt Heights addition as the evacuation started last night. Civil defense officers and the Red Cross opened shelters for the Dallas evacuees.

The Trinity welled over its banks north and south of the city, where no levees exist. The mayor at Atlanta, Texas, declared his east Texas town a disaster area.

The area also was flooded last year. A small tornado whipped across Henderson, in east Texas, during a thunderstorm last night. No one was injured but there was widespread minor damage.

Severe hailstorms, high winds and cloudburst rains swept from central Texas eastward.

Student Beaten By Four Youths

Kansas City — An 18-year-old white student at Central High school was beaten severely yesterday by four Negro youths, who said they resented his handling of an ROTC squad.

Police said the four admitted beating Gerald Henderson. None was charged. They are to appear with their parents at the Kansas City Youth bureau Saturday.

Officers said the Negro youths, two of them 15, one 16 and one 17, said Henderson had been "lording it" in ROTC drills. Henderson is sergeant of a squad which is about half Negro and half white.

Ultra-Modern Passenger Trains Planned for C&NW Fox Valley Run

BY MIKE DREW
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Two passenger trains which he calls "the most modern in the country" will be installed on the Chicago and North Western railway company's Green Bay-to-Chicago run by Oct. 1, according to the road's chairman, Ben W. Heineman.

In an exclusive interview with the Appleton Post-Crescent, Heineman revealed a tentative schedule for the two ultra-modern trains, which currently are in production in Worcester, Mass.

Important Area
Each train will include eight or nine double-decked cars, including 2-layer parlor cars and bar cars. The dining cars will be single-deckers.

Introduction of the trains on the Chicago-to-Green Bay run marks the first time new North Western equipment has been introduced here. Previously, new trains had been installed on the Chicago-to-Minneapolis-St. Paul trip.

Fears Ike's Plan Could Damage Marine Corps

Gen. Pate Criticizes Program as McElroy Denies Realignment Aim

Washington — The marine corps commandant said today that if congress enacts President Eisenhower's defense reorganization plan as written, some future secretary of defense may give the marine corps "the bum's rush."

At the same time, the house armed services committee received written assurance from Secretary of Defense McElroy that his department has no intention of making "a sweeping realignment of the services or their administration." He said any merger of services would be expressly forbidden by the proposed law.

"The army, navy, air force and marine corps retain their respective individualities," McElroy wrote.

Fears for Future
Gen. Randolph M. Pate, the marine corps commandant, appeared before the committee to deliver the most outspoken opposition yet voiced by any service witness to features of the administration proposal.

Pate emphasized he does not believe "those now in high office" have any intention of reducing the marine corps to impotence if the bill is enacted. But, he said, "present good intentions are no insurance against future damage to our usefulness; only in the law can we find such insurance."

And, Pate continued, he finds it difficult to see how sections of the present law which spell out the roles and missions of each service "can be regarded as unduly restrictive, other than by some future secretary of defense who intended sooner or later to alter the marines' status and functions."

Cites Overlapping
Pate thus tied his major criticism of the administration proposal to the section which has aroused perhaps the most hostility among members of the committee — Eisenhower's recommendation that these sections spelling out the job of each military service be repealed.

On this subject, McElroy said the proposed changes "do not change the present statement of functions of the armed services."

But, the secretary said, the advent of modern weapons has led to confusing and wasteful overlapping. He said rigid provisions in the present law make it difficult for the secretary of defense to make decisions and administer the department effectively.

Red May Day Rallies Stress Peaceful Labor

Aiken Wants U.S. to Consider Four Day Week

Thinks It Could Lead to Prevention Of Economic Slumps

BY G. MILTON KELLY

Washington — Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) said today congress should study the feasibility of a 4-day work week, at least in some industries, as a possible cure and preventive of recessions.

He said it should be considered along with the ideas of a guaranteed annual wage and profit-sharing for workers in industries which have periodic layoffs. He mentioned the automobile industry as one.

Aiken emphasized that he is not suggesting a quick switch to any of these ideas, but added: "Eventually we've got to consider it, and I think we should consider it now."

Looks to Future

Both the current business slump and prospects that many industries will need fewer workers in the future indicate, he said, that there is a need for something more than hurry-up steps to get people back on pay-rolls after recessions have thrown them out of jobs.

Aiken said automation in some sections of industry has

Revenue Service Probes Possible Misuse of Stamps

Washington — The internal revenue service reported today what it called the mishandling of 48 to 60 million dollars in canceled federal tax stamps at the New York Stock Exchange.

After four years of investigation, the case was referred to the justice department which decided there was no grounds for criminal prosecutions.

Involved were documentary stamps representing payment of federal stock transfer taxes. This tax is levied against all stock exchange transactions.

A revenue service spokesman said a service employee in New York was "careless" about canceling the stamps after use. He said this permitted three or four employees of the New York Stock Clearing Corp., an arm of the stock exchange, to peddle the stamps to dealers who in turn sold them to collectors.

There was no loss of money to the federal government. The stamps represented taxes already paid.

The under-the-table operation began in 1951 and was broken up in 1954, the spokesman said. He reported the revenue service employee was retired and that the stock exchange workers were fired.

Frondizi Sworn in As Argentine Chief

Nation's First Democratic Government Head in Decade

Buenos Aires — Arturo Frondizi was sworn in today as president of Argentina's first democratic government in more than a decade. He promised a rule of law and justice. The tall-bearded lawyer took the oath before a joint session of the new congress, ending 2½ years of provisional military government since the overthrow of Juan D. Peron's dictatorship.

Frondizi swore "by God and the gospels to fulfill my task with loyalty and patriotism." Alejandro Gomez, Frondizi's running mate in the left-of-center radical party, then took the oath as vice president.

Frondizi looked pale from a bout of influenza but his voice was clear and strong as he launched into his inaugural address.

"Today," he said, "a government in the name of the people draws down the curtain on everything that has happened day by day to this moment. We close the stage in order to take a great stride forward."

Frondizi said the first bill his government will submit "will be ample and generous amnesty" and all parties will be free to carry on political activity.

To this obvious reference to the outlawed Peronista party he added that he was voted into office by the great majority of Argentine citizens, including Peron followers.

Frondizi assailed U. S. trade policies without mentioning the United States directly. He urged Latin American nations to fight trade discrimination and dumping, the common Latin American term for sale of U. S. surplus farm products abroad.

Heads Oil Monopoly

Frondizi said Argentina's foreign policy will hinge on a foreign policy which Kennedy said has been "universally recognized as a union-busting device" from the Taft-Hartley labor relations law.

The provision bars strikers from voting in a plant election held during a strike.

Kennedy would permit employees engaged in a lawful strike to vote in a plant election even though they have been replaced by the employer.

The new president said foreign capital was welcome to help develop the oil industry, but Argentina will grant no concessions and will retain control through the state oil monopoly.

Frondizi drew cheers when he said he would assume personal leadership of the oil monopoly. Foreign oil company operations have been a hot issue in political debate.

The president said there will be no further seizure of private enterprises nor nationalization of existing firms but there would be no step backward either. This indicated he would carry out nationalization procedures against two European-owned power companies begun by the provisional government.

He called for a program of "austerity and sacrifice" to pull Argentina out of its economic crisis during the six years he will serve as president.

Seeks Ban on Labor Bribery

Kennedy Also Wants Legal Prohibition Of Union-Busting

Washington — Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass.) announced today he is introducing bills to crack down on bribery of labor union officials, and to eliminate what he termed a union-busting provision in existing law.

Kennedy said a senate labor subcommittee he heads will consider these along with a mass of other labor-management legislative proposals already introduced. The subcommittee will resume its public hearings Monday.

Would Change Law
The senator said one of the three bills he will introduce would impose penalties up to a year in prison and $10,000 fine on any employer or employer representative seeking to bribe or otherwise attempt to influence a labor organization or its representatives. It would impose the same penalties on those who accept bribes.

Another would eliminate a provision which Kennedy said has been "universally recognized as a union-busting device" from the Taft-Hartley labor relations law.

The provision bars strikers from voting in a plant election held during a strike.

No Serious Outbreak On Holiday

By the Associated Press

Millions of working people poured into streets and squares around the world today for May day parades and rallies. In Moscow the accent was on peaceful labor rather than military might.

Communist leaders hailed the "spontaneous" demonstrations of well-ordered marching groups while police stood by in some cases to make sure no one left.

Throughout western Europe workers turned out to hear labor leaders and enjoy a holiday in clear, sunny weather. U. S. laborers, who celebrate the first Monday in September, worked as usual.

Mindful of past workers' clashes on May day, police forces of many nations were tense. But the only violence reported in Europe came when mounted police charged a shouting crowd of laborite demonstrators in London.

Clash in London

That incident began when labor leader John Lawrence and other laborites arrived at a vacant lot for a mass rally at the same time as supporters of an opposing right-wing movement. Lawrence's group ran up labor's red flag over the borough hall of St. Pancras. Soon 200 students were milling around the building waving union jacks and demanding that the labor banner be taken down.

Police told Lawrence his crowd would have to leave because the others were on the lot first. When Lawrence refused, six policemen grabbed him and a struggle followed.

Parades and other demonstrations were banned in Paris for fear of trouble over Algeria. The communists support freedom for Algeria and right-wing groups oppose it.

20,000 Cheer Pope

In Vatican City Pope Pius XII was cheered by about 20,000 workers when he was brought into St. Peter's basilica on his portable throne. The pope urged laborers to follow a Christian road to improve their working conditions.

A crowd officially estimated at 400,000 turned out in bright, warm weather for Budapest's all-civilian parade.

Farmer Dies in Burning Home

Beaver Dam — A 42-year-old farmer was killed and his parents were injured early today when fire swept their 2-story home one-half mile east of here.

The body of Stanley Kasza was found on the floor of a second floor bedroom after firemen from Beaver Dam extinguished the flames. He apparently had died of asphyxiation.

Stanley's father, Frank Kasza, 72, and his mother, 66, were taken to St. Joseph's hospital where their conditions were reported generally good. The elder Kasza suffered burns on his face, hands and arms while Mrs. Kasza hurt her back in a leap from a second-floor window.

Another son, Frank, Jr., leaped to the ground from the upper floor of the 7-room frame house but escaped injury.

Strafing of Homes Laid to Questionable Judgment

Take Action To Prevent Recurrence

Washington —P— Air Force Secretary Douglas said Wednesday strafing of three Sheboygan county, Wis., homes last March was due to questionable judgment by a B47 bomber crew.

"The air force is extremely sorry for the inconvenience and losses caused by this incident," Douglas told Rep. Reuss (D-Milwaukee), "and is making every effort to effect prompt restitution for damages."

Douglas said claims for damages in the incident are being processed at Mitchell field in Milwaukee.

"The air force is taking corrective action to prevent the recurrence of such an incident," he said.

Don't Limit Military, Plea

Asks Freedom for Space Work

Washington —P— The head of the Pentagon's special space bureau said it could be disastrous to allow a civilian agency to limit military uses of outer space.

Roy W. Johnson, director of the defense department's advanced research projects agency (ARPA), called on congress to write into President Eisenhower's bill for a civilian space agency a clearcut provision giving freedom for military space projects.

Man Into Space

"For example," Johnson told the house space committee, "if the defense department decides it to be militarily desirable to program for putting man into space, it should not have to justify this activity to this civilian agency."

Johnson's prepared statement etched sharply the question of whether military or civilian authorities should have the upper hand in future disputes over handling of space projects.

Eisenhower's bill envisages the civilian agency as controlling all government space research except for that "primarily associated" with military use. Administration witnesses have said disputes would be settled by lower-level action.

Pending creation of a civilian agency, Eisenhower has authorized ARPA to go ahead for one year with experiments like shots at the moon. Eisenhower also ordered review of such projects to see whether they should be taken over by the proposed civilian unit.

Johnson did not specify whether he thought ARPA should hold on to the moon rocket program, but said:

Pursue Programs

"I believe a civilian astronautics agency should be created with its own funds for use in pursuing its programs. However, military programs already demand the use of outer space for many uses for the protection of our country."

"The legislation setting up a civilian group should not be so worded that it may be construed to mean that the military uses of space are to be limited by a civilian agency. This could be disastrous."

Agree to End Indian Control Dec. 31, 1960

Compromise of Joint Committee - Attacked by Laird

Washington —P— A senate-house conference committee Wednesday agreed on legislation calling for termination of federal control of the Menominee Indian tribe of Wisconsin on Dec. 31, 1960.

But the compromise was attacked by Rep. Laird (R-Marshfield) who said the conference committee "is trying to run roughshod over the Indian people."

"I will ask the house not to accept the conference report," Laird said.

The committee also agreed that all costs of termination would be borne by the government and the Indians on a 50-50 basis.

In 1954 congress passed a bill providing for termination over the tribe on Dec. 31, 1958, with the Indians paying all separation costs, estimated at about a half-million dollars.

Laird Bill

Two years later, however, congress passed a bill by Laird providing that all termination costs be paid by the federal government. And in 1957 the house adopted another Laird bill extending the termination date to June 30, 1961.

In passing its version of the bill the senate set Dec. 31, 1960 as the termination date and adopted an amendment by Sen. Neuberger (D-Ore) to provide that the government and the tribe split separation costs.

The different versions were resolved by the conference committee Wednesday after several months of no action on the issue.

In opposing the compromise, Laird asserted:

"The Democratic-controlled conference committee is trying to run roughshod over the Indian people. This was also done over the recommendation of the Wisconsin legislature and the Wisconsin legislative council. It is not fair to ask the Indians to pay half of the costs."

Laird did not serve on the conference committee.

3 Homes Hit

Cannon shells from a B47 bomber from Lockbourne field, Ohio, struck three occupied houses at Sheboygan Falls and nearby Oostburg March 17. Other shells fell on streets and roads. No one was injured.

Douglas said a special ballistic test established that the shells were fired from a B47 on a training mission which included gunnery practice on a range on Lake Michigan, south of Sheboygan.

Douglas said, "The investigating board found that the most probable cause of this incident resulted from questionable crew judgment, in that the crew attempted to complete the firing pass during marginal conditions—time of day, weather, fuel reserve and available firing distance commensurate with ammunition load."

Youth Booked In Slaying Of Classmate

Massapequa, N.Y. —P— A 15-year-old schoolboy has been booked on a charge of first degree murder in the shotgun slaying of a classmate in a high school washroom.

Wall Zator

Late Hour

He said the aircraft crossed the firing range from southeast to northwest and that the crew members, because of the late hour and low fuel supply, decided to complete the gunnery mission by firing all their ammunition in one run across the range.

"They ceased firing upon notification from the range controller that there were other aircraft in the vicinity," said Douglas. "This message was followed almost simultaneously by notification from the crew that they were crossing the western boundary of the range."

Bruce Zator was charged and held without bail yesterday for allegedly shooting down Timmy Wall, also 15, in a climax to a series of name-calling and fist fights between the two in the past few weeks.

Both boys were freshmen at Massapequa High school. School authorities said Zator had been under the care of a school psychiatrist for three months and only Tuesday had been suspended from classes because of truancy.

Zator assertedly shot down Wall with a 12-gauge, single-barreled shotgun his father had given him several months ago.

Nassau county Dist. Atty. Frank Gulotta said Zator sawed off the barrel so he could hide the weapon under his jacket when he went to school yesterday morning.

Gulotta said under the law Zator, despite his age, may be indicted for first degree murder — punishable by death in the electric chair. Gulotta said he will seek such an indictment from the grand jury.

Jap Machinery Mogul Has Largest Income

Tokyo —P— Konosuke Matsushita, a 63-year-old electric machinery mogul in Osaka, had the biggest taxable income in Japan last year, the tax bureau announced today. He cleared 210,110,000 yen ($583,639) and will pay almost half the sum — $251,388 — in direct income tax.

There were several coal mine operators who made larger net incomes, the bureau said, but Japanese law exempts any one opening new coal mines from income tax for three years.

Hoover Sees Trend to Glorification of Crime

FBI Chief Says Same TV Programs and Movies Bring About Juvenile Violence

Washington —P— FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said today there is a dangerous trend to glorification of crime in television programs and motion pictures.

He described such presentations as an "affront to our national conscience," and linked them with outbreaks of juvenile violence.

But at the same time Hoover credited many leaders in the movie and TV industries with helping law enforcement by "genuine portrayals of criminals."

In a signed editorial in the May issue of the FBI Bulletin, Hoover said:

"As a law enforcement officer, and as an American citizen, I feel dutybound to speak out against a dangerous trend which is manifesting itself in the field of film and television entertainment."

"In the face of the nation's terrifying juvenile crime wave, we are threatened with a flood of movies and television presentations which flaunt indecency and applaud lawlessness. Not since the days when thousands filed past the bier of the infamous John Dillinger and made his home a virtual shrine have we witnessed such a brazen affront to our national conscience."

"As an illustration, two brothers, aged 10 and 12, who a few weeks ago terrorized a town in Oklahoma in a shooting spree that left one man dead and two others wounded, told the police they got the idea from watching television and movie crime stories."

Air Force Man Gets Last Wish - Burial at Sea

Norfolk, Va. —P— Air Force Sgt. Bertram G. Bugg has had his last wish—burial at sea—carried out by the U. S. navy.

The body of the 33-year-old triple service veteran was committed to the 385-fathom (2,370-feet) deep Atlantic ocean Wednesday about 65 miles off the Virginia capes.

"It was the most beautiful and moving ceremony I have ever seen," said Bugg's widow, Mrs. Evelyn J. Bugg of Evansville, Ind., who with her husband's niece, Mrs. Mary Lou Lester, also of Evansville, witnessed the burial from aboard the destroyer escort Parle.

"I will be eternally grateful to the U. S. Navy," Mrs. Bugg said.

The burial service was read by Lt. Ronald Starenko, a navy chaplain. A 6-man firing squad fired three volleys and a bugler blew taps.

Buggs, whose last duty was at Lackland Air Force base, Texas, died April 17 of pneumonia after major surgery.

Norman Clapp Enters Congressional Race

By The Associated Press

Another candidate entered the Wisconsin political scene Wednesday night when Norman M. Clapp, 1936 Democratic candidate for the house from the Third district, announced he will again seek the party's nomination. He is a former Appleton resident and a graduate of Lawrence college.

Clapp was defeated two years ago by Rep. Gardner Withrow (R-La Crosse). A Grant county weekly newspaper editor, Clapp served as secretary to the late Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, Jr.

Medical Plight Called Slight In Space Flight

Atlantic City, N. J. —P— A human could rocket into space today less apprehensive from a medical standpoint than Columbus was on his voyage to the new world.

The major problem is in re-entry and recovery of the space capsule.

That was the word from a panel of space medicine specialists who said "man is ready to go if we can give him a safe trip."

They described aspects of space flight, such as the effects of weightlessness, to the 39th annual meeting of the American College of Physicians.

"Nothing will kill a human spaceman if the launching goes according to plan," said Col. John P. Stapp, an aeromedical researcher stationed at Wright-Patterson field in Dayton, Ohio.

He added:

"The effects of weightlessness may make him inadequate but they certainly won't kill him."

Col. Paul A. Campbell, of the air force office of scientific research in Washington, D. C., likened space advances of the past few years to knowledge gleaned before the sailing of Columbus.

Columbus and his crew, said Campbell, "launched themselves into a vast void with an accepted risk probably greater than the calculated risk which will be accepted by the first man launched into space."

Capt. Julian E. Ward, deputy director of the air force department of space medicine at Randolph, Texas, described weightlessness as the biggest mystery in space medicine.

Denver Zoo Has Cage Full of Green Monkeys

Denver —P— Denver's zoo has green monkeys — a whole cage of them.

Supt. Clyde Hill explained it this way:

A zoo employee was painting a gable above the monkey cages when one of the simians reached through the bars and grabbed a bucket containing a gallon and a half of the green paint.

Most of the paint spilled on Ike, a spider monkey, but some of it spilled on the cage floor. A dozen monkeys danced through it, then scooped up handfuls of it and tossed it around.

Ike is getting special treatment, Hill said, but it will just have to wear off of the others.

Governor During Famed 1921 Murder Trial Dies in Boston

Boston —P— Alvin T. Fuller, governor of Massachusetts during the world famous Sacco-Vanzetti case, died of a heart attack last night while attending a downtown theater. He was 80 in February.

He is the second former governor of the state to die within the month. Paul A. Dever died April 11.

Accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Fuller Halsey, the former governor was watching the Slaters and Morrill Shoe company playmaster and guard were first brought to trial May 31, 1921. They were convicted July 14 the same year.

Legal Maneuvering

Long legal maneuvering followed but on April 9, 1927 the pair was sentenced to death. They died in the electric chair in state's prison on Aug. 23, 1927.

Prior to his two terms as governor from 1925 to 1929 Fuller was elected to the U. S. House of Representatives from 1917 to 1921. He then served two terms as lieutenant governor. He held no public office after the governorship.

Ike's Hands-Off Stand on His Successor Puts Nixon on Spot

Vice President's Supporters Had Hoped for Chief Executive's Nod

BY JACK BELL

Washington —P— President Eisenhower's statement he has no responsibility to groom a successor appeared today to have put Vice President Nixon in a political dilemma.

Nixon's expected bid for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination apparently must rise or fall largely on the record of a chief executive who now indicates he doesn't plan to push any particular aspirant as his successor.

In case of a dispute over policies, this puts Nixon in the position of being forced to choose between an open break with Eisenhower—which no one expects—or going along on Eisenhower's policies and decisions without promise of the president's backing.

Warm Flight

As Eisenhower noted, he and Nixon are warm friends, and Nixon is kept in close touch with government activities. He currently is in Buenos Aires as part of an official good will tour.

As an active participant in cabinet and national security council deliberations, Nixon can help as an individual to shape the administration's course. There is no doubt he supports many of the decisions and policies enthusiastically, but if the decisions go against his own judgment he seems likely to be stuck with them politically.

As a case in point, Nixon has made it clear to friends he would like to move considerably faster on anti-recession measures than the White House has been willing to go. His recent pitch for a tax cut—obviously made on his own initiative—bounced ineffectively off a stone wall of administration resistance.

The code by which he has chosen to operate as vice president denies Nixon the kind of freedom of action other aspirants for the nomination will be exercising when 1960 rolls around.

Man Whose 3 Children Drowned in Bus Tragedy Recovers Third Body

Prestonsburg, Ky. —P— James Goble, a storekeeper whose three children drowned in the nation's worst school bus accident, personally recovered the body of his third child yesterday.

Goble pulled the body of 12-year-old James Edward from the Big Sandy river near the fatal scene.

Diabetes Is Seventh Leading Cause of Death in State

BY CARL N. NEUPERT, M.D.
State Health Officer

This disease, moreover, ranks as the seventh leading cause of death in the U.S.—the same position as in the U.S. alone it is estimated that over a million persons are known to have the disease, while still another million are suffering from diabetes without knowing it.

by lack of insulin in the body. not burning the sugar needed, the body cells to help them in their work, the are unable to use or store all the sugar eaten and produced in the body from food consumed. As a result sugar accumulates in the blood and spills over into the urine.

Lowered Resistance
The body then reacts by making certain adjustments. First, the kidneys increase the quantity of the urine to wash away the unused sugar. Next, the thirst increases to provide adequate fluid supplies in the body. Finally, since the muscles are not burning the sugar needed, the sugar in the urine—sugar in the urine—are tell-tale signs of suspected diabetes. The disease is usually detected through urinalysis, and, if an abnormal sugar content is discovered, through a subsequent blood test. Although there is no cure for the disease, treatment ranges from a change of diet alone, in mild cases, to the use of insulin.

Diabetes is one of the diseases with which the medical profession is well-equipped to deal. With early discovery and co-operation on the part of the patient, it can be controlled. For this reason, it is wise to see your family physician promptly and follow his advice if any symptoms of this illness are noticed.

High School Stage Plotted for May 19 Production, 'No Time for Sergeants'

Although the stage show, "No Time for Sergeants," won't play in Appleton until May 19, the Appleton high school stage already is in process of being "plotted" by technicians of the New York company now on the road.

The 3-act comedy on the army life of a backwoods draftee is the third and last production of the Famous Star series sponsored by Neenah Rotary club.

Recording the technical aspects and liabilities of every set and liability of the company on the Appleton stage has been plays in one of the many jobs sent to the stage manager who of Miss Lorella Val-Mery, and travels with the company. It includes such data as exact measurements of the full stage.

measurements of the acting area, the height and width of the opening or proscenium arch, location of stage openings through which the actors make their entrances and exits, various stage properties and even the distance the light from the various spotlights travels to reach the stage.

Master Plan Made

Border lights were located, pieces of equipment listed, the location and unit strength of the various electrical outlets noted. The grid, that above-stage apparatus that holds various hanging scenery pieces, was inspected. Whenever necessary a rough sketch of the stage is made to mark specific stage drawbacks for production of the play, the agent said.

From these facts, a master plan will be drawn up so the day the three 10-ton trucks move into town no time will be lost in setting up the stage for the night's performance.

"There's no guessing with this play," Miss Val-Mery stated. "Our technical crew will know before they arrive just what methods they will use to provide the best mechanics possible to make the show a success."

She pointed out that few people realize how important are backstage preparations for a stage show. "Without good technical planning, a show can fail," she said. "The stage hands and crew are every bit as important as the actors who speak the lines."

In a comedy such as this, the scenes must move quickly, she said as one reason for the careful plotting of the stage. Another is to give theatergoers the same quality of performance the show had in its 800-performance, 2-year run on Broadway.

Among the spectacular scenic effects of the comedy hit is an airplane in flight. When assembled on stage, the aircraft is 26 feet wide and 17 feet high. Supported by steel girders above the stage level, the plane has the appearance of being suspended in mid-air. The plane is built as a cut-out, so during action the audience will be able to see what is going on inside.

Scenic and lighting artists have designed a series of rotating lights to create the illusion of motion. This particular scene is complete with mobile clouds, roaring engines and red and white blinker lights on the stage plane, Miss Val-Mery said.

She is one of four women with the "No Time for Sergeants" company. A former dancer, Miss Thelma Chandler, is production stage manager of the New York company and is the only woman in the United States in charge of a theatrical operation of this size. The other two women are members of the cast, Harriet Shepard and Mary Dell Roberts, wives of the two male leads, Charles Hohman and Rex Everhart. All, except Miss Val-Mery travel by bus with the road show personnel that totals 47 persons. Nine of the workers are stage technicians.

Last City on Tour
Miss Val-Mery, who has been a press agent for 20 years, began collecting technical data for the first time with this production. She evolved her own fact sheet reports through experience. She leaves the work with the Appleton performance, since this is the last engagement of the company's tour. This is the 102nd American city the company has played and

State, County Aids to Schools Exceed Budget

Legislators' Change Of Mind Last Fall Partly Responsible

The board of education, which has received $20,004.04 more in state and county aids than was anticipated when the board's 1958 budget was drafted last fall.

Chief reason for the windfall is the state legislature's changing ways last fall on whether it would grant kindergarten aid.

At the time the Appleton budget was drawn, the legislature had passed a provision knocking out kindergarten aid. Subsequently, and too late for budget changes, the aid was granted.

Board members looked for $130,340 in state aid based on 1956-57 elementary school average daily attendance. They took into account that they would be paid $35 for each of 3,724 pupils. They ignored kindergarten pupils in the count.

Payment of the aid this week by the state, however, took into account the kindergarten pupils, raising the total on which the $35 would be paid to 4,119.

The total payment amounted to $144,165, or $13,825 more than the $324 would have produced. County aid also amounted to more this year than was predicted. Board members looked for $52,850 and received $58,800. The aid payment is based on the number of teachers.

State aids, meanwhile, also have been paid for average daily high school attendance, the school census, speech classes and mentally retarded classes.

Full payments are yet to be made. Miss Val-Mery has visited three weeks ahead of play date.

She has seen the show but twice, once in Houston, Texas, and the second time in College Station, Texas. The college show was the most interesting to her because the crew members had to set up their special "bird cage" or steel skeleton stage they use when no stage is available.

Miss Val-Mery will go to Pittsburgh for her new job, that of publicity director for the 6-week season of the Pittsburgh Civic Light Opera company. Among her numerous assignments, she has done public relations work for the Theater Guild and has worked on five shows with Katherine Cornell.

come, orthopedic classes, and homebound services.

State aid for high school attendance exactly equalled the board's expectation, $82,886. It is based on a 1956-57 average daily attendance of 1,884, with aid paid at the rate of $44 a student.

More Ahead

Census aid, paid at the rate of 38 cents for each student in the school system, amounted to $5,976.32, slightly more than the $4,936.96 expected.

Speech and mentally retarded aids were slightly less than expected, $5,284.24 and $16,234.76 received, respectively, when the outlook was for $5,525.46 and $16,803.86.

These state aid payments are anticipated before the year is out: $21,408.92 for orthopedic classes, $2,598 for transportation charges and $1,344.80 for homebound services.

The total received to date is $213,356.32, compared to $293,352.28 budgeted. This amount from six of the nine sources in the state and county aid class—nearly equals the total amount expected from all nine, $318,704.

Hiked Aid Rate
State aid for elementary schools this year was raised from $30 to $35 for each child in average daily attendance. The high school aid of $44 per student represents an increase of $9 over last year.

William Knuth, the board's director of business affairs, points out that the state aid for elementary school attendance probably will be less next year because this is the last year in which the state will count kindergarten pupils in the elementary school attendance.

New Dictionary Necessary for Recession Terms

Descriptive Words Used in Capital Are Somewhat Novel

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — They're going to need a new dictionary here to understand the "recession." The descriptive words being used are somewhat novel. Thus President Eisenhower says at his news conference that "the decline is flattening out," while Al H. Temple, executive vice president of the First National City bank of New York and a noted economist, declares in a speech before the U. S. Chamber of Commerce meeting here that "the foundation for the bottoming out is developing."

The president was talking about the drop in the unemployment figures for April. The use of these phrases assumes that the average man is familiar with the graphs and charts that portray the way the month-by-month figures on employment, production and sales go up or down or stay on the same level. So when the line on the chart "flattens out," it is a basis for hoping there will be no further decline. If some day there is an "upturn," then the horizontal line may well turn out to have been the "bottom" of the recession.

tries, plant expansion will slacken or cease until sales and consumption show signs of new breakthroughs. Beyond any possible doubt, that happy day will come. The problem is to speed it. The solution of the problem cannot be left to Washington.

"Somehow the paradoxes in present economic relations must be resolved. It is paradoxical that wages should rise while workers are being laid off, that prices should rise while sales shrink drastically. In the short run these are alarming facts. In the long run the cost increases can be borne through greater productivity, achieved through greater effort, better machinery, better management, new and improved ways of doing things, and new and better things to meet people's desires."

Behind these cautiously worded phrases are events that make the headlines. Walter Reuther, head of the auto workers union, demands, for instance, that auto prices now be reduced as a means of inducing sales. He says this notwithstanding the fact that built-in escalator clauses on wage scales, which go into effect automatically, mean extra expense for the auto companies.

Covered by Clauses Approximately 4,300,000 workers are covered by clauses in labor contracts which provide that, whenever there is a half of one per cent rise in the official index for consumer prices, wages must go up one cent an hour. The big groups covered by such contracts are workers in the automobile and railroad industries as well as in steel and to some extent in farm and electrical machinery.

Now an index of cost of living may go up due to the weather or crop conditions; but the increases in wages must be granted irrespective of the ability of the employers to absorb the extra costs or to pass on the additional expense in the form of price increases for the products manufactured.

There are indeed a number of "paradoxes" in the situation. The labor leaders are clamoring for a tax cut to benefit persons in the lower bracket of incomes, the theory being that this will add to purchasing power generally. But it is not a broad increase in personal income that is needed so much as a remedying of the conditions that have brought on the decline in the hard-goods industries.

All sorts of proposals, involving many billions of dollars of government spending, have been made inside and outside of congress to stimulate the economy. But the real cause of the recession — the dilemma of the hard-goods industries — hasn't been tackled yet, and until it is, these industries, which have the biggest amount of unemployment, are not likely to recover very soon.

Soviet May Day Rallies Stress Peaceful Labor

Said Gyoergy Marosan, minister of state in the communist government. He spoke from the pedestal of the Stalin monument, destroyed in the 1956 revolt.

Polish communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka charged in a 30-minute speech opening Warsaw's celebrations that the west is afraid of a summit conference. American policy has taken the world to the brink of war and may take it beyond the brink, Gomulka said. He also assailed West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, charging him with increasing world tensions with a militarist policy.

Parade in Warsaw

About 100,000 people paraded past communist party leaders in Warsaw. Police made sure no one went home ahead of schedule, even grabbing women who wanted to leave the ranks.

Moscow's annual military parade lasted only 15 minutes, but about a million people turned out.

It rained in Moscow as the brief display of conventional military equipment rumbled through Red square, followed by a sports display and Moscow residents marching before Soviet leaders and U.A.R. President Nasser. It was the shortest May day military march in years and no new weapons were shown. The day's speaker, defense Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, sounded the usual fulminations against the west and the usual Soviet promises of peace through strength.

Communist East Germany showed more steel in a 40-minute display of military equipment before red party boss Walter Ulbricht and other leaders in Berlin. The weapons included armored trucks, anti-aircraft and anti-tank guns, heavy howitzers and the first T34 Russian medium tanks seen in East Berlin.

West Assailed

In the western sector of the divided city a demonstration began with the slogan "peace-freedom-progress."

President Antonin Novotny of Czechoslovakia reviewed a parade in Prague, then vigorously attacked "western imperialists" and especially West Germany.

Peiping radio said half a million Chinese communist workers, peasants and students paraded before Premier Chou En-lai "in unprecedentedly high spirits." North Korea claimed it mustered 100,000 persons for a parade in Pyongyang.

Yugoslavia, celebrating modestly this year, was the only communist country without a big parade. Instead there were dances, theater and sports events and a 4-day holiday.

Some 300,000 Japanese demonstrated peacefully in Tokyo. The workers supported the socialist opposition with demands for the defeat of the conservative government in coming parliamentary elections.

Asked to Boost Output

As usual, all U. S. military personnel in Japan were ordered to stay away from the demonstrators. Such orders to servicemen in Europe also have been standard for years to avoid May day incidents.

Speakers at labor day rallies on Formosa urged workers to do their best to step up production. The speakers said this would help recover mainland China from the communists.

Heavy contingents of police and army troops directed a parade of some 10,000 persons through Saigon to celebrate the Vietnamese labor day.

A state of emergency was in force in the British Mediterranean colony of Malta to ward off May day violence. The emergency was declared after demonstrations. Yesterday protesting British economic policy toward Malta.

In Havana, the Cuban Confederation of Labor mobilized more than 5,000 "activists" to guard a rally expected to draw 10,000 workers. The labor organization is loyal to President Fulgentio Batista in his battle against rebel leader Fidel Castro.

Aiken Wants U. S. to Consider 40-Hour Week led or is leading to a situation in which a peacetime economy just can't keep the available work force employed on a 40-hour week the year round, and added:

"We'd have had to face up to this before if it hadn't been for World II and the Korean war."

Aiken said he is far from sure that an upturn this summer and fall would last through the winter.

"I don't believe the automobile and heavy machine industries, for instance, ever again will need as many workers as they have in the past 15 years," he said.

Aiken took this long-range view as some other continued to call for more immediate action and indices showed various ups and downs in the economy.

The agriculture department reported yesterday that farm prices increased 1.14 per cent from mid-March to mid-April to a level 984 per cent above that of a year ago. The new level was the highest since January, 1933, when the Eisenhower administration took office.

Farm Prices Rise

A report from the commerce department, meanwhile, showed that sales and new orders at the manufacturers' level rose last month but not as much as is normal for this time of year. That meant that on a seasonally adjusted basis they required a "little."

But optimism noted that the rate of decrease had decreased for the third straight month and one commerce department technician said the figures on the surface would seem to indicate a leveling-out trend. He said, however, that April figures could give a different picture.

Another economist said stepped-up ordering of aircraft "offset a fair amount of decline" in other sectors of the durable goods industry last month. The implications was that any slowdown in aircraft orders could quite conceivably reverse the improved trend in orders.

Vengeance Was Sweet For Man From Carolina

Charleston, S.C. — Vengeance was sweet for Ralph Hale.

Infuriated by repeated thefts from his farm gasoline tank, Hale finally dumped 20 pounds of sugar in the remaining 75 gallons. Then he began checking garages.

In a few days, he found that a vehicle had required a major reconditioning job because sugar had gummed up the motor and "frozen" it solid. Re-marked Hale with deep satisfaction:

"That fellow's got what you might call a sweet running motor!"

City Planners Approve Three Plats, Study One

All Recommendations Go to Councilmen at Wednesday Session

Two final plats and a tentative one have been approved by the city planning commission while a second tentative one was held for study.

The plats which were approved will go to the city council next Wednesday night for a vote.

They include: The final Woodland Manor plat, 26 lots at the northeast corner of N. Meade street and E. Woodland avenue and owned by Leonard Wiese, Gerald E. Quimby and Arthur P. Hietgas. Commissioner J. R. Whitman, Jr., thought the corner lots were too small but admitted there appeared to be no other solution.

Needs State Okay The final Fritsch Home Acres, an 84-lot plat on Midway road in the town of Measha halfway between High-commission, Duszynski was ways 10 and 47. It is owned by elected secretary and Ald. Ken Ralph and Howard Fritsch. It is subject to approval by the state board of health. The state commission and it had to re-board wants a septic tank and organize.

wells ordinance adopted by the town before it will approve.

The tentative Madison plat, showing an undetermined number of lots south of E. Harding drive and west of S. Kernan avenue. It is owned by Dr. William Madison and his wife. Commissioners gave approval contingent upon continuing S. Gladys street southward, with a slight jog to the east at E. Harding.

A tentative plat of land owned by Mrs. Clara and Mrs. Elsie Koehnke between W. Lindbergh street and the north city limits just east of N. Richmond street was held for study.

Chester Meiers, who represented the women, said they do not want W. Lindbergh, W. Pershing street and W. Michigan street to go through to N. Richmond.

Director of Public Works Edwin J. Duszynski said at least 20 feet of land they own will have to be dedicated either as street right of way or through an easement for the large sanitary sewer main which is being constructed in W. Lindbergh to finally reach a lift station at the Soo Line Railroad tracks.

Duszynski is to study how much land will be needed for the sewer and perhaps for a storm sewer.

Mayor Clarence A. Mitchell was elected chairman of the high-commission, Duszynski was elected secretary and Ald. Ken Ralph and Howard Fritsch. It is subject to approval by the state board of health. The state commission and it had to re-board wants a septic tank and organize.

Recapture All Five Escapees From Reformatory

Green Bay —All five of the men who escaped Monday night from the Wisconsin State Reformatory honor camp at Lake Tomahawk have been recaptured, Supt. M. A. Skaff said Wednesday.

The last two to be apprehended were Henry Whychesit, 21, Shawano, and Duane Culver, 20, Eagle River. They were caught during the night in the Fawn Lake area only a few miles from the reformatory farm, Camp McNaughton, in Oneida county.

Undersheriff Melford Krouze and Oneida county Traffic Officer Gunnar Bernsteen spotted the escapees walking along a side road, one of them wearing an army uniform. Krouze said the fugitives admitted they had broken into three different cabins seeking clothing and food.

Earlier Tuesday, a few hours after the disappearance, Jessie Tye, 19, of Solon Springs was apprehended in Rhinelander. Tuesday morning, Gary Hacker, 20, Shawano, and William Bearheart, 22, Danbury, were picked up three miles from camp.

Skaff said all five would be returned to the reformatory and would face escape charges.

KHS Thinclads Plan 3 Meets Within 5 Days

Coach Wayne Welch Names Contestants For Various Events

Kaukauna — The Kaukauna High school track squad will take part in three meets within the next five days including a triangular and two dual events meeting three conference opponents and one non-league foe.

The Ghosts will travel to Neenah at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon to run against the Rockets and the Shawano Indians. Shawano, usually a powerhouse in Mid-East track competition, is hampered by lack of veterans this year.

Kaukauna took second in a triangular test with Menasha and Kimberly last week while the Rockets have yet to be defeated. Neenah early in the season was picked to walk off with the conference championship.

Kaukauna Performers Main threats for Kaukauna on the basis of previous competition will be Keith Kemp in the hurdles, Tom Whitman and Mark Nagen in the 880 and Dan Verbeten in the mile. Represented on the Ghosts' undefeated sprint medley team are Glenn Hinkens, Tom McCandrews, Ron Biese and Bruce Ludke.

Competing in the dashes for Kaukauna will be Jack Pomeroy, Glenn Hinkens and Dennis Priebe. The latter is a freshman and already this year has taken three seconds and a third.

Kaukauna's main threat in the shot put will be Dale Kemp. Bill Britten was counted on to compete in the event but was dropped from the squad for breaking training rules, according to Wayne Welch, coach. Competing in the discus will be Charles Kemp, Tom Berg and Bill Campbell.

Rounding out the competition in the field events will be Doug Ludvigson, pole vaulter; Bruce Ludka, broad jump, and John Rogers and Keith Kemp, high jump. Other meets for the Ghosts within the next week is a dual meet at Menasha on May 6 and a dual at West De Pere on May 7.

Fire Delivered to Firemen on City Truck

Kaukauna — The Kaukauna fire department had a fire delivered to the station about 10 o'clock Tuesday morning when a mattress on a city dump truck ignited. The mattress was ignited by hot ashes which were dumped onto the truck by city crews.

The department was called about 8:30 Wednesday morning to the William Lamine residence, 152 W. Wisconsin ave., and ignited. Firemen used dry chemicals to extinguish the space heater onto a metal mat fire.

Flag Project Is Expanded By Little Chute Legion Post

Little Chute — Members of the Jacob Coppus American Legion post have started work on expanding a flag project started last summer.

The post in cooperation with the village board and Businessmen's association went to work after Main avenue was reconstructed in 1957 and placed flag pole sockets at 50 foot intervals between Madison and Wilson streets.

At the present time the Legionnaires are installing sockets along Main from Wilson to near Taylor street. This will enable the post to erect flags along the entire parade route for the annual Memorial day parade May 30.

When the project was first started a committee headed by Ron Geiger, chairman, undertook initial work. Assisting Geiger were Len DeCoster, Joe Van Bakel, John R. Jansen, Richard A. Ebben, Leon Bongers, Willard Van Handel, Sylvan Lamers, Lloyd Vanden Heuvel, Roger Hammen, Ray Mignon, Tony Van Wymeren and Gene Driessen.

A trailer 12 feet long and four feet wide with a capacity of 300 flags was built. Approximately 25 flags were donated by local businessmen.

The first time the flags were displayed was Veterans day last fall. Members of the post and ignited. Firemen used dry chemicals to extinguish the space heater onto a metal mat fire.

Solo, Ensemble Selections to be Part of Annual Event

Kaukauna — Plans are underway for the annual spring concert by the Kaukauna High school band which will be held at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in the civic auditorium, according to Elwood Bleick, director.

Besides several numbers by the entire band, several solo and ensemble groups will play selections. The director has not yet chosen musicians to take part in solo and ensemble numbers but said it would be similar to those taking part in the recent band festival at Appleton.

As in previous years, a variety of music will be played to make the program appealing to people of different tastes. Among the numbers the band is rehearsing for the program are "Our Glorious Land March," "Caucasian Sketches," "Cardinals on Parade March," "Blue Tango," "Sand Paper Ballet," and "Colonel Bogey March."

The first two numbers above were played at the music festival in Appleton and received very favorable comments from the judge, Mark Hindsley, band director of the University of Illinois. He said the Kaukauna band had good intonation, technique, tone and interpretation. The local unit competed in class A at the festival.

Fox Cities, Northeast Wisconsin Remember Death of Joe McCarthy

Plan Service at Grave, Mass at St. Mary Church

Prayers recited at the grave of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy during burial services a year ago will be repeated Friday by the Rev. Robert McCarthy, New Franken, a friend, during a brief service for family and friends at St. Mary cemetery. A solemn high requiem mass in remembrance of the senator's death last May will be sung by The Rev. Adam Grill, St. Mary's pastor, at 10 o'clock Friday morning at the church. Announcements of the service have been sent to McCarthy's close friends, including many in the Fox Cities. Appleton veterans' organizations also will be represented at the mass. Floral tributes are planned by the Outagamie county federation of Republican women, veterans' units, relatives and friends.

Members of Sen. McCarthy's former office staff have arranged for a solemn high requiem mass to be sung at St. Matthew cathedral, Washington, where the McCartneys were parishioners and where they were married.

Memorial services have also been planned in California, Illinois, Iowa, Massachusetts and New York.

Mrs. McCarthy was in Appleton Wednesday with her adopted girl, Tierney, and her mother, Mrs. William P. Kerr. They returned to the home of friends in Manitowoc, but will be back in Appleton Friday to participate in the memorial mass and graveside services.

Thousands Paid Last Tributes to Appleton Senator

BY DAVID APKER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A year ago Friday residents of the Fox Cities and northeastern Wisconsin were shocked to learn of the death of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy.

McCarthy died May 2, 1957, at the Naval hospital in Bethesda, Md., of a liver ailment. His body was returned to Appleton the following Monday for burial.

Thousands of people watched in silence as the senator made his last trip. Men held their hats over their hearts, children climbed onto the roofs of buildings and there were tears shed as an honor escort of more than 50 cars brought the senator's body from Austin Straubel field in Green Bay to St. Mary Catholic church in Appleton.

Crowds lined the route. Police estimated 10,000 people lined the route followed by the cortege within the city limits. More than 3,000 were on hand at the airport when air force planes bearing McCarthy's body, friends and relatives arrived. Along the route, groups of people gathered at intersections and sat in cars parked at the roadside to pay tribute to Appleton's best-known son.

U.S. senators and congressmen and state senators and assemblymen were among the dignitaries in Appleton for the funeral. Gov. and Mrs. Vernon Thomson led a delegation of state executive officials. Upwards of 17,000 mourners filed past McCarthy's open casket at the church through Monday night and early Tuesday morning.

At one time people were strung out, three or four abreast, for almost four blocks. Through the 4 1/2 hours from 6 o'clock to 10:30 at night the procession was at least two blocks long.

Appleton police reported automobiles parked around the church were from many states other than Wisconsin.

Mourners Procession The procession of friends and well wishers continued until well after midnight. At midnight there were still more than 100 people seeking entrance to the church. A small, but steady stream of visitors continued through the night.

Hundreds of people packed the church for the funeral mass late in the morning. Hundreds more in the church basement and outside listened over a loud speaker setup.

About 25 camera and newspapermen posted themselves on the roof of St. Mary's school across the street to gain a better vantage point. An equal number stayed on the street to snap their pictures from that angle.

Neighbors stood on porches and looked out windows to watch the scene. Youngsters climbed trees and tried to scale the rough stoned church to look in windows. Fathers lifted little ones to their shoulders. Many watchers prayed quietly.

Inside the church, the Rev. Adam Grill, pastor of St. Mary's and friend of McCarthy, sung a solemn requiem mass.

Note Decrease in U. S. Traffic Toll

Chicago — The nation's traffic death toll for the first quarter of this year was 7,730, a decrease of six per cent compared to 8,250 in the first three months in 1957.

The national safety council said the 2,630 traffic deaths in March was nine per cent lower than in March last year and the lowest for March since 1955.

It was the fifth straight month and the 15th of the last 16 in which traffic fatalities totaled the same or less than in the corresponding months of the previous year, the council said.

The council said cities of 10,000 population or more led the way to the decrease in highway deaths last month. It said the toll in the cities was 14 per cent lower than March last year.

Twenty-nine states reported a decrease in deaths in the first three months of this year compared to the first quarter of 1957. 17 had increases and one reported no change.

Man Adopted 2 Years Ago By Woman Will Get Over Million Dollars

Stamford, Conn. — A professional singer will receive more than a million dollars under the terms of the will of a wealthy Stamford widow who adopted him two years ago when he was 54 and she 78.

Andrei Kristopher 56, is principal beneficiary of Mrs. Bertha Louise Draper, who died here last April 5. Her will was admitted Tuesday to probate.

Kristopher and his wife, who died in 1955, were long-time friends of Mrs. Draper, widow of Charles Draper, a retired New Haven railroad executive. Kristopher had assisted her in handling her business affairs.

Mrs. Draper adopted Kristopher in 1956. It was stated, for the specific purpose of giving him the inheritance rights of a natural son. At the time it was testified in court that her only living relatives were unnamed cousins.

Intoning the Catholic church's ancient prayer for the dead.

In his sermon Father Grill declared that McCarthy's life had been an expression of service to altar and flag.

"He loved his God, and he loved his country. To him the people of Wisconsin imposed the obligation of working for the good of the people of the United States and for the people of Wisconsin. He dedicated himself to this work."

Crowds of people lined the route from the church to St. Mary's cemetery.

McCarthy was laid to rest at the family plot on a bluff overlooking the Fox river. At the graveside were the widow, Mrs. Jean Kerr McCarthy, relatives, friends, members of his staff and the congressional and state official delegations.

Standing stiffly in salute was a 33-man contingent of marine regulars honoring the senator, who had served in the marines during World War II.

Father Grill blessed the grave and prayed the burial service. He was joined by a score of priests.

Three volleys of rifle salute shattered the stillness. Softly from the graveside came the sound of "Taps." Answering from far down the bluff was the echo, played by another bugler.

Silence settled on the throng again. The services were over. Joe McCarthy was home.

Speech Impediment Brings Acting Career

New York — A speech impediment started Broadway singer-comic Iggy Wolfington on the path to show business.

"The Music Man," a current hit, "I got the performing bug when schoolmates and grown-ups laughed at stories I would recite."

"It was the way I talked. Finally a doctor told my mother the reason was that I could not think faster than I spoke, and the words got all mixed up."

New Mormon Temple Rising Near London

London —P— The Mormon church is building a $14 million temple just outside London.

The Mormons have established 94 churches in Britain. The first temple is a steel and concrete structure started two years ago. Its slender white spire, 160 feet, dominates the peaceful, grazing country at Lingfield, some 30 miles south of London.

It will be paid for on completion. "Our faith is carried on under the old Biblical law of tithing," the Mormons' British president, Clifton G. M. Kerr, explained. "Every member of the church voluntarily gives 10 per cent of his income to it."

David O. McKay, 85-year-old president of the reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints—the full title of the Mormons—is coming to England to dedicate the temple Sept. 1.

The Mormons then will have 15 temples throughout the world. President Kerr says membership in this country is 11,000 and growing 1,000 a year. The Mormon organization has some 170 missionaries working here — young Americans and Canadians who give their time voluntarily for two years.

Sunburned Eilat Port 'Wild West' of Israel

City on Gulf of Aqaba Dusty, Bustling, Fastest Growing Region in the Country

Eilat, Israel — People in Israel call this sunburned port within sight of three unfriendly neighbors their wild west. And it looks the part.

Opened to world trade only 16 months ago after Israel's Sinai campaign against Egypt, it is dusty, bustling, the fastest growing, cockiest place in Israel.

It stands at the southernmost point of the nation, on the brilliantly blue waters of the Gulf of Aqaba, now Israel's outlet to East Africa and Asia. On the west are the Brown, jagged hills of the Negev desert adjoining the border of Egypt. Towering on the east are the dry, purple mountains of Jordan, reaching down to the nearby border of Saudi Arabia.

"We're going to stand on our own feet. We're going to make this a major port, industrial city and tourist center," Mayor Hanoch Nenner tells visitors.

Only a few years ago it was nothing but a lonely police post. In the 7½ years, before the Sinai campaign it handled only 6,000 tons of commerce.

But in 1957, after Israeli troops broke through, 40,000 tons went through the port. This year the estimated tonnage is 220,000. In five years, after an enlargement program costing more than $800,000, the port is expected to handle more than 600,000 tons yearly. These figures do not include Eilat's role as an oil port, for oil statistics are not divulged. An 8-inch pipeline extends from here to Israel's Mediterranean coast.

As an industrial city, according to Mayor Nenner, Eilat will manufacture goods from raw materials imported from east Africa and Asia. Its produce will range from fish meal to furniture.

As a Resort

As a resort, it offers brilliant sunshine, winter warmth and the crystal clear waters of the gulf of Aqaba.

"In 1957 we had close to 10,000 foreign visitors," Mayor Nenner said. "According to our plan, every tourist coming to Israel will come to see Eilat."

To implement this, Israel's histadrut or labor federation opened a strikingly modern hotel on the beach March 10. It is just over a half-mile from the Jordan border, a fact which worries no one here.

All these plans may sound grandiose for a town of 4,500 population, cut off from the rest of its country by a barren desert. But now, connected by a new highway and daily airline service, Eilat is growing like a western boom town. By the end of 1958 population is expected to be doubled, and by 1961 18,000 people may live here.

"Even pessimists say it will be that large," says the mayor. "And there aren't many pessimists here."

Karl Marx's Old Home in London To be Torn Down

London — Demolition workers edged in on Karl Marx's home today. They are reducing the whole neighborhood to a mass of rubble.

By next May day there won't be a sign of the house in which the bearded visionary—co-author of the Communist Manifesto—died 75 years ago.

An apartment house is to be built on the site, symbolizing a phase of social revolution peacefully achieved.

The apartment building will be owned by the London county council. Its rooms will be rented to workers generally in low income classifications.

Marx's old home is one of a number of shabby Victorian houses standing on a crescent in an unfashionable part of London.

Born in Germany May 5, 1818, Marx came to England in 1844. He lived for a while in poverty on Dean street, Soho. Then he moved to Maitland park.

As the demolition axes and hammers move close to his house, it has become a relic. Small boys have smashed the windows. The paint has peeled off.

Six Year Old Romance Ends In Disaster; Legal Aid a Must

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: I went with a fellow for six years and suddenly I found I was in trouble.

I'm two years older than Jim but we are both of legal age. When I told him he was going to become a father, he seemed very proud.

The next thing I knew Jim's mother called me on the phone. She said she'd heard about my "scheme" and that I should forget about her son because we were "through."

Believe me, Mrs. Landers, we are far from through. I have no intentions of letting him get away with this. Please tell me what steps to take.

LAURA

(P. S. — I never looked at another man in all the years we went together and he knows it. In fact, when I met Jim I was as pure as the driven snow.)

Too bad you drifted. There is no law that can force Jim to marry you, but you are entitled to medical expenses and child support. Get a lawyer or contact Legal Aid.

DEAR ANN: A certain party in our office who shall be unnamed loves to smoke cigarettes — but he doesn't like to buy them. This character burns from everyone in the place and YOUR play-penned baby will frankly, we are all sick of it. I understand how a person can run out occasionally, but this guy never has a cigarette on him.

I can't tell him I have no cigarettes because everyone knows I'm a heavy smoker and I always have an extra couple of packs in the desk drawer. Please advise me on how to handle the leech. — MARLON

Strange how the people who go into a nicotine fit if they don't have a cigarette are so often "fresh out."

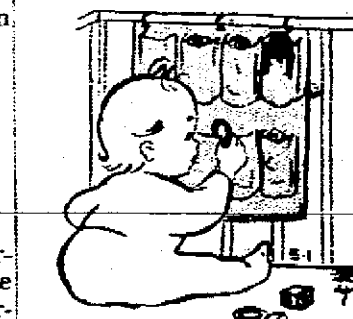

Since you always have an extra pack handy, offer to sell him the entire pack, instead of giving it to him one at a time. This formula is the best one I know.

DEAR ANN: I'm 17 and will graduate from high school soon. My family doesn't care anything about the outside of our house. It needs paint, the lawn is a mess and the garage which can be seen from the street is falling apart so bad my dad doesn't even keep his car in it.

During the winter when it gets dark early, I have lots of dates. But summer is coming soon and I know the fellows

North-South had a great preponderance of the honor strength in the following deal—25 high-card points against East-West's 15 — and so it seemed that the mere two-spade contract was in the bag, but it wouldn't have been if West had seen and seized his opportunity.

East, dealer.

North-South had a part-score of 40 when this deal came along: The bidding went:

East South West North
1 H 1 S Pass 2 S
Pass Pass Pass

West led his top heart; East won and collected two more tricks in the suit and then made the safest shift, to the jack of clubs. (If West had the club king, it would be trapped anyway, and a shift to trumps by East was highly unattractive in that it might find West with jack and three small trumps. Finally, a diamond lead, away from the king, was not to be considered.)

Declarer took the club shift and cashed two high trumps, getting the news about the trump break when East discarded the thirteenth heart. South then cashed a third round of trumps, and East let go the diamond four — he could not afford to signal high in diamonds since he might have urgent need of the ten and nine. Declarer next cashed his other club tricks, and then he led a low diamond toward the dummy. West simply followed suit, and declarer put in dummy's three-spot — there was no temptation to put up the queen, because East's opening bid had marked the location of the king.

East, thrown in with the diamond nine, was now helpless. A club return would let South discard his other losing diamond while he ruffed in dummy; and on East's actual return of a low diamond, South ducked and won the trick with dummy's queen. The contract was now on ice, with only three heart tricks, one trump and one diamond going to the defenders.

Outagamie County Homemaker Clubs climaxed the project year with Achievement Day activities Wednesday at Holy Cross school, Kaukauna. Miss Nyla Bock, county home agent, right, looks over the day's program with Mrs. Martin Britten, Kaukauna, program chairman, shown left, the Rev. Edward Wilde, pastor of East Moravian church, Green Bay, and Mrs. Homer Thompson, Shiocton, newly-elected president of the Homemakers' council. The Rev. Mr. Wilde, guest speaker, spoke on "Americanism."

Miss Judy Voecks, Black Creek, center, was named the recipient of the homemakers' annual scholarship award, and Miss Marguerite Nelson, Hortonville, was announced as the alternate winner by Mrs. Vincent Baum, Appleton, chairman of the scholarship committee, shown right. The award is presented yearly to a high school senior to further study in home economics, nursing or education. (Post-Crescent Photos)

'Americanism' Speech Topic

Achievement Day Climax to County Homemaker Project Year

An escapee from the Soviet secret police called America the last stumbling block dividing the free world from Communism Wednesday afternoon when the Rev. Edward Wilde of Green Bay described his flight from Russia at the Outagamie County Homemakers' Achievement Day at Holy Cross parish hall, Kaukauna.

The pastor of the East Moravian church, Green Bay, chose the topic "Americanism" for his address to the 270 women who had assembled for the day-long program climaxed by the county homemakers' project year.

"Communists are fully dedicated to their aims," warned the Rev. Mr. Wilde who became a naturalized citizen in 1947. He was forced to flee Russia in 1937 when his teaching career in the Ukraine was terminated when he refused to swear loyalty to Communism. Carrying forged passports, he slipped out of the country to Canada 51 hours before the secret police.

Communists Vicious
The pastor compared fervent demonstrations prior to his departure from Russia in 1937, and in 1936, when he visited relatives in Germany. "Their methods have changed—but they are still the same," he said. "The American Legion auxiliary people—America is called a capitalist warmonger."

Also appearing with the Rev. Mr. Wilde on the afternoon program was Mrs. Vincent Baum, chairman of the homemakers' scholarship award committee, who named Miss Judy Voecks, Black Creek, as this year's recipient. Miss Voecks, a high school senior, will pursue nurse's training. Miss Marguerite Nelson, Hortonville, was announced as alternate winner of the award, which is presented yearly to further study in home economics, nursing or education.

Award of Appreciation
An award of appreciation was given to Mrs. Joe Walker, who served as county home agent during the absence of Miss Nyla Bock, county home agent. Miss Bock recently returned from a trip to Finland where she was an International Farm Youth Exchange student.

A medley of vocal selections by the Homemakers' chorus, directed by Mrs. Ray Remmel, and accompanied by Mrs. Manning Nelson, pianist, closed the afternoon program.

Theme of the day's events by "Good Fences Make Good Neighbors," and the morning agenda included a welcome by Mrs. R. W. Schroeder, 1202 N. Appleton street, who entertained the Pan American unit of the American Legion auxiliary at 1:30 Friday afternoon at her home. The unit has asked auxiliary members to be guests with reservations to be filed with Mrs. Schroeder.

Mrs. DeForest Meyer, retiring president of the homemakers' council, introduction of guests and a review of the year's projects by Miss Bock.

Morning Agenda
Entertainment given during the morning was presented by Linda Lambie, Kaukauna, who stressed the important role of women in developing leadership in the home. Beverly Smudde, Kaukauna, demonstrated the correct use of fruit in the breakfast menu and a playlet entitled "Among Us Girls," was performed by members of the Round Table Homemakers club.

Noon luncheon was served by the Altar society of Holy Cross parish and table decor featured geranium bouquets and bird cages filled with flowers and chicks. Musical selections were performed by eighth grade children from Holy Cross during the luncheon.

Arrangements were handled by the Achievement Day committee comprising the Mmes. Walter Lueck, Hortonville, chairman, Joseph Helmke, Seymour, Martin Britten, Kaukauna, Tom Smith, route 1, New London, Wilbur Sedo, route 2, Black Creek, and Leon Schultz, route 1, Seymour.

Serving as ushers were the Mmes. George Bodde, Urban Mieke, George Lueck, William Timmers, Joseph Rademacher and Eugene Lambie. Decorations were fashioned by members of the following clubs: Dutch, J-Ettes, Nitingale and Wisdom Seekers.

Party Guests Can't be Told To 'Go Home'

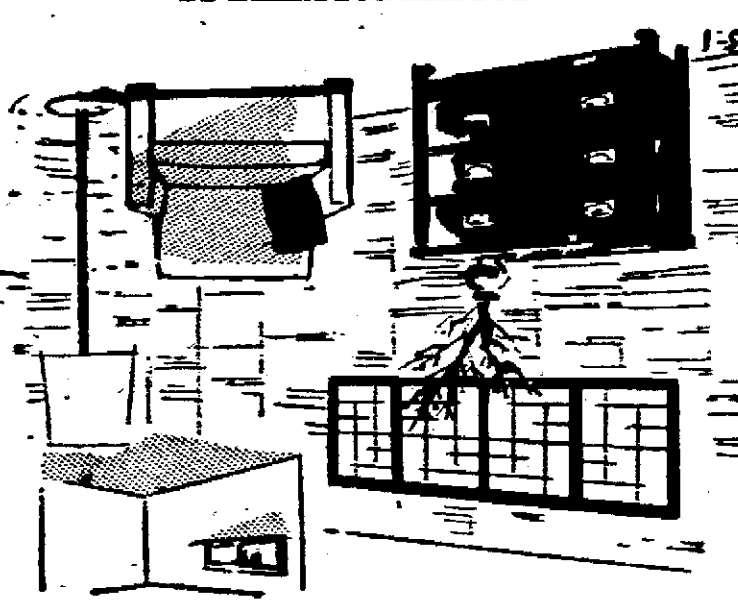

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I like to give parties but I also like them to end at a reasonable time. The last few parties we had at our house went on until the wee hours of the morning. My husband and I were completely exhausted when our guests left and almost vowed never to give another party. Is there a tactful way for a hostess to tell her guests "the party is over; please go home?"

Answer: I am sorry to have to tell you that as hostess, you cannot possibly ask your guests to "go home." The only thing you can do is to ask a most intimate friend to make the move for you. When the hour grows late, she could say, "I think we had better go; it is getting very late and I am

Imaginative Cover-Up for High Windows

Since almost no view can be glimpsed through these high windows, decorator Bill Dameron designed a panel for them instead of curtains. And he had another, more important reason. With his special treatment of the windows, he transformed them from the ordinary to a decorative feature that belongs to the room's oriental styling.

The window design is adapted from a graceful, authentic Shoji panel which is used for the headboard of a bed in the same room. The lightweight wood structure fits over the window frames to conceal them and the white parchment is translucent for the light to come through. Black for the wood structure repeats the black of the chest and helps to relate the window from looking misplaced and too high.

Query on Seating

Answer: At the parents' table, correctly at the right of the bride's mother.

Franchot Tone's Son to Attend Boarding School Despite Mother's Protest

Santa Monica, Calif. — His mother's tears to the contrary, 14-year-old Pat Tone will attend boarding school. Actor Franchot Tone's son, Pat, will attend boarding school. Actress Jean Wallace pleaded with the court to let her 14-year-old son, Pat, remain in her custody and attend the period from May 8 through May 17 as 'Best Appliances' day school in the Los Angeles area.

But superior court modified a previous order — one giving her custody of both Tone's sons — and granted the actor's request that Pat attend an eastern prep school where Tone himself graduated.

Miss Wallace, now wife of actor Cornel Wilde, asked that Pat not be separated from his 12-year-old brother, Jeff, Tone, and Miss Wallace were divorced in 1951. He later married actress Dolores Dorn-Haft. They live in New York.

Actions Louder Than Words Patri Cautions Young People

BY ANGELO PATRI

Boys and girls should know that one need not use words to ask for anything. Actions ask for consequences louder than any words can do. The law, and it is a law of human nature, works both ways, positively and negatively. One will get what he asks for by his acts.

Consider the student in secondary school who does nothing to help anyone and has to be pushed into handing in his assignments, who refuses to serve on any committee, is always the last one to accept a direction whether it is a recitation, a class bell or a teacher's order. He is asking for disapproval and he is certain to get it.

The time comes, say at college entrance time, when he needs all the recommendations he can muster and discovers that they are fewer than few.

His parents come to his aid and learn that there is nothing that can be done. He "asked for it."

Positive Side
On the positive side the student who has given his best to any and every situation, in school and out, who has been friendly and helpful, who has done his full share of the work and some more, who has done his best to cooperate with his teachers, his classmates and his neighbors in general will find many doors open to him, many a helping hand ready before he calls. He too, "asked for it."

It is true that some boys and girls are better fitted for study than others. True too, that temperament and talent are unevenly distributed. Still each has his "peculiar treasure" and if he uses it, spends it generously (be it just a smile and a cheery "Hello", it will carry him to where he wants to go.)

To get what one wants, one must ask for it day by day by acts that build the road to it. An education, a cultivated talent, a place in the world must be asked for with all one's heart and with all one's mind. What are you asking for?

Pupils Learn Conservation At Trees Camp

Twenty Fox Cities area students and four teachers attended Trees for Tomorrow camp at Eagle River. They were part of a group of 40 students and six teachers from 10 high schools in Wisconsin and Michigan awarded all-expense scholarships to the conservation camp by Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

Those who attended are Raymond Gulbrano, a teacher, Janice Lathrop, Allen Maueg, Jean Droeger, and LeRoy Geri, of Seymour High school; Mrs. Anna Scribner, a teacher, Betty Monty, Vicky Lehman, Clayton Balke, and Harold Suprise, of Bear Creek High school; Robert Lee, a teacher, Carol Conradt, Janet Helser, Earl Conradt, and Thomas Young, of Shiocton High school; Audrey Vande Hey, Karen Bougie, Victor Brown, and Daniel Carney, of Freedom High school; Wallace Nelson, a teacher, Dan Holz, Gene Morack, Linda Breitrick, and Darlene Jeske, of Hortonville High school. The students were chosen by their schools on a scholarship basis.

Most of the classes were held outdoors despite snow and cold winds. The students visited a fish hatchery, a tree nursery, a demonstration forest, and a large beaver pond. They learned about law enforcement from the Eagle River game warden, and about fire control at a ranger station.

Water Conservation

One of the topics which was dealt with extensively was water conservation. At Rainbow Flowage the students conducted their own water-flow measurements and were told how the Wisconsin river, through a series of reservoirs and dams, serves the paper and electric power companies, as well as the people of Wisconsin along its route.

Theory and actual practice were mixed in the instruction, which interrelated the importance of wild life, fish, forest, soil, and water conservation. An examination was taken at the end of the 3-day course.

Those who received awards from Trees for Tomorrow for outstanding activity at the camp are Clayton Balke, Linda Breitrick, Dan Carney, Janice Lathrop and Thomas Young.

All five schools received gold certificates of achievement for superior camp participation.

Women at FVGC Plan Card Party

Kaukauna — Women at the Fox Valley Golf club will sponsor a public card party in the newly remodeled clubrooms beginning at 8 o'clock Monday night.

Various types of games will be played with prizes awarded and a lunch served. Miss Mildred Nelson is chairman for the affair. Money raised will be used to help purchase needed equipment for the club. This will be the first social event of the season for women members.

by Saturday from Mrs. Thomas Evans, 234 S. Helen street, or Mrs. John Van Munn, 372 N. Wilson street.

Guest speaker for the banquet will be Flora Cushman, Jefferson, and her topic will be "Who Am I." New officers will be installed after the dinner.

Issue First of 30 Permits for Low-Cost Homes

24 'Component' Dwellings Will Be in Neenah

Neenah — The first eight of some 30 building permits for low-cost "component" houses have been issued by Carlton F. Williams, city building inspector. The permits were granted to E and R Construction company, route 2, Neenah, for $8,000 frame dwellings on Peckham street and Jane court. The first was issued Monday and the other seven today.

Thirty such homes have already been sold on the basis of an open house at a model at 119 W. Peckham street, Erwin G. Reinbein, president of the construction company, said. Of this total, 24 are to be built in Neenah in the next three months, being started at the rate of two per week. The remainder are to be built in Menasha and the rural area surrounding the Twin Cities.

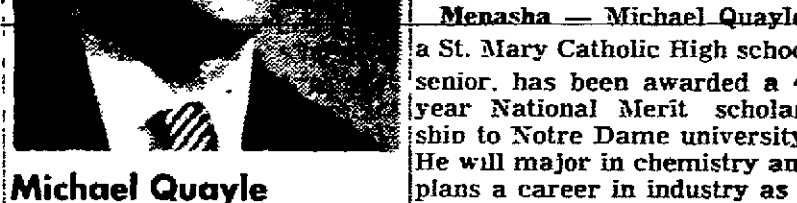

The homes, manufactured in prefabricated "component" parts by National Homes, Lafayette, Ind., are being erected in this area by the Valley Homes Development company, a division of E and R.

About 75 per cent of the homes sold during the recent campaign are being financed on 30-year mortgages Reinbein said. The total cost of the "component" homes featured are generally less than $10,000. The executive added that this type of construction could be used for any kind of homes.

The remainder are to be built in Menasha and the rural area surrounding the Twin Cities.

The homes, manufactured in prefabricated "component" parts by National Homes, Lafayette, Ind., are being erected in this area by the Valley Homes Development company, a division of E and R.

About 75 per cent of the homes sold during the recent campaign are being financed on 30-year mortgages Reinbein said. The total cost of the "component" homes featured are generally less than $10,000. The executive added that this type of construction could be used for any kind of homes.

K-C World-Wide Interests Leads to Magazine Change

Neenah — Kimberly - Clark corporation's employe magazine, "Cooperation," came out today in a new style resulting from the far-flung scope of the company. The new form provides each plant with complete news of its vicinity.

First 32 pages of each issue will be of general interest news and information and will be included in every unit's issue.

After this will be a special section which will be primarily of a local nature, covering the activities of that particular unit. "The growth of the corporation and the problems of including complete news of all units in one magazine made the change necessary," the magazine announced in its March-April issue distributed today to employees.

Leading the general interest part of the magazine is an article on "Camping is Real Family Fun," showing pictures and ideas of employees from many of its mills who have taken to the national and state parks to spend their vacations.

Another article, "A New Word in Paper," tells the story of Kimberly - Clark's texoprint, a plastic impregnated and coated printing paper being used in children's picture books, as maps and in other printing purposes and also as small chalk boards. It also is finding use in outdoor signs and billboards.

The use of the sales promotion center here to provide paper distributors with information about the company and its products is another general interest article as well as one on St. Hyacinthe, Quebec, where the company has begun manufacturing operations.

There are separate editions for the general offices at Neenah, for the Neenah mill, for Kimberly mill and for Atlas mills in this area plus separate magazine inserts for the other mills of the company.

Four Neenah Cindermen Boast Perfect Marks; Five of Last Year's Winners Defend Laurels

Neenah — Neenah will make a bid for its fourth straight track win of the spring (its second in triangular competition) when it entertains Shawano and Kaukauna Friday afternoon.

The Rockets bested Berlin and Ripon handily Tuesday in their only three-way meet and they have dual wins over Menasha and Two Rivers.

Kaukauna tied Kimberly in a dual and finished second in a meet with Menasha and Kimberly. In its only start, Shawano wound up third in a triangular with Oconto Falls and Marinette.

Veteran Performers

Campbell won the 440 in the Kimberly dual in 56.4. McAndrews was first in the 100 in 11.2, Hinkens won the 220 in 24.8 and Berg took the discus with a throw of 117 feet.

In the triangular, Campbell copped the 440 in 57.6, Wittman won the 880 in 2:17, and the medley relay team won in 4:10.

Shawano has only three returning lettermen and it was a poor third in its initial meet, failing to cop a first. Returnees include Bill Griesbach and Bill Neek, dashes, and Steve Beverly, shot put.

Rocket performers who are still unbeaten include Fred Segelink, high jump and pole vault; Jim Quade, mile; Eric Anderson, 440; Ralph Syring, discus, and the medley relay team.

Wayne Rudolph won both of his 880 yard outings but placed second in the 440 in his last start and Jerry Schaefer has two straight high hurdles wins.

The Rockets defeated the same two foes in a triangular a year ago. They scored 100 points to 58 for Shawano and Kaukauna's 48.

Returning winners included Hector Fischer, Neenah, 880 in 2:05.4; Jim Quade, mile, 4:42.2; Rogers, Kaukauna, high jump, 5 feet, 2 inches; Jerry Hensen, pole vault, 10 feet, 6 inches; Syring, shot put, 43 feet, 6 inches and the medley relay team, which has three of the four returning runners.

Bees Capture Series Opener From Foxes

Brewer Fans 13 Batters In 8-2 Win

Burlington, Iowa — Jim Brewer, Burlington left-hander with excellent control and a lot of quick-breaking stuff, throttled the Fox Cities Foxes, 8-2, here Wednesday night in a Three-I league game played before 604 fans.

Brewer, who had an 11-5 record in the Class D Sooner State league last year, struck out 13 Foxes and didn't walk a man. He permitted only six hits.

Tonight, Fox Cities Manager Pete Suder will call on right-hander Bill Felker in an effort to even the Burlington series and square the club's season record. The Bees will counter with "Pinky" Lynn.

The game, which saw the Foxes outdistanced from the third inning on, was not without its bright spots for Suder. Third baseman Bob Van Dyke continued his torrid hitting, with three hits in four trips. Van Dyke now has 8-for-12 including four doubles, in three games.

Bloodworth Loses
And Al Guenther, $20,000 bonus pitcher, turned in a good relief job in his first appearance of the season. He pitched two hitless innings.

Ron Bloodworth, starter and loser, and Gary Mitchell preceded Guenther to the Fox Cities mound.

The Foxes drew first blood when Julian Castro drove in Van Dyke with a first-inning single. Van Dyke had beaten out a hit down the third-base line and moved all the way to third on Brewer's over-throw.

Burlington knotted the count in the second when third baseman Jim Woods belted a home

Cubs Knock Braves Out of 1st With Four Home Runs

Banks Hits 2 Out of Park; Jim Brosnan Hurls 5-Hitter

Chicago — Four Milwaukee pitchers paraded to the mound Wednesday and two of them, Bob Buhl and Joey Jay, spent their time ducking the home run drives of the Chicago Cubs who posted an 8-2 victory over the Braves.

The results dumped the defending champions out of first place after a stay of only 24 hours and left them tied with the Cubs for second a half game behind the San Francisco Giants.

Brosnan Gives 5 Hits
Ernie Banks belted two homers for the Cubs and Lee Walls and Sam Taylor, a former Brave, added one each. While they were knocking the ball out of the park Hank Aaron, Ed Mathews, Joe Adcock and Bob Hazle failed to get a hit off Jim Brosnan who allowed only five safeties in claiming his second victory against as many defeats.

Buhl, making his fourth start, was charged with the defeat and is now 3-1.

The only consolation for the Braves, forced to go deep into the pitching staff for the first time, was the relief work of Carlton Willey and Humberto Robinson. Each got through an inning without giving up a hit, and Willey struck out two of the four batters he faced.

The game was scoreless until the third when Milwaukee put the first run on the score-board. The score came on Buhl's single, a double by "Red" Schoendienst and Hazle's infield out. The Braves scored the game's last run in the ninth as Harry Hanebrink walked after two were out and scored when Walt Moryn dropped Johnny Logan's line drive for a 2-base error.

In between those runs it was all Cubs.

After getting through the first two innings without giving up a hit Buhl saw Bobby Thomson single and take second on a passed ball to open the third. Taylor then hit his first major league home run in the ninth inning propelled Rochester to a 10-9 decision over Cedar Rapids Wednesday night for its first victory in the young Three-I league baseball season.

Rochester's Athletics, playing pro ball for the first time since 1912, came from behind to score seven of their runs in the last three innings.

Elsewhere in the league, Green Bay's Bob Sedlak hurled a 4-hit 4-0 victory over Davenport and Fox Cities lost, 8-2, at Burlington.

Garner Clouts HR
The Rochester hero was Tony Degenaro, whose wallop sealed Rochester's uphill surge. Ron McCutcheon also homered for the victors. Cedar Rapids scored eight runs in the fifth inning, highlighted by Horace Garner's 3-run homer.

Green Bay's Frank Howard, the well-known Ohio State baseball player, whacked his first organized-baseball homer as the Bluejays moved into a 3-way tie for first place with Cedar Rapids and Burlington.

Ripon College Nine Registers 5-4 Triumph Over Lawrence

Blister Trouble Forces Elliott Out in 8th

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Mark down the name of Bert Elliott as another in a long line of Lawrence college athletes who has acquired a strong distaste for losing to arch rival Ripon.

And, for a while Wednesday afternoon, it looked as though Bert and his Viking baseball teammates might not have to swallow that bitterest of all pills.

Then, in the eighth inning, one of two large blood blisters which had been blossoming on the middle finger of Elliott's pitching hand burst. That, as the saying goes, was the ball game.

Marked Improvement
In losing to the Redmen, 5-4, on the wind-swept South Side Athletic club diamond the Vikes exhibited a marked improvement since their last outing—a 24-0 no-hit clobbering at the hands of powerful Stevens Point State.

Lefty Elliott curve-balled his way through seven nifty innings against the Redmen Wednesday. Until the fatal eighth he had allowed five hits, struck out 12 Redmen and walked five allowing three runs. A pair of walks and a pair of wild pitches in the eighth with blood dripping from his hand, cost him two more runs and he departed after getting a pair of Redmen on strikes. A sore arm, suffered in last week's Oshkosh State game, also bothered Elliott.

Reliever Karl Franke got the final batter in the eighth on an infield grounder and set down Ripon in order in the ninth.

Trailing, 5-2, going into the last of the ninth, Lawrence scored twice and had the tying run on first when the game ended.

Ramsey Walks
Third baseman Rick Ramsey walked to open the Lawrence ninth. Then left fielder Charlie Scruggs bounced to pitcher Jim Nelson and Nelson threw the ball into center field while trying to force Ramsey at second. Ramsey legged around to score.

Kimberly — Rallying for a pair of runs in the sixth and seventh frames, Kimberly High tied Menasha and then took a 5-4 victory in an extra inning Wednesday afternoon in a Mid-Eastern conference game here.

Jack Konecny blanked the Papermakers until the sixth when a passed ball and an error let in two runs. Gordy Selbach came to the mound in the seventh, had control troubles that gave Kimberly the tying runs and the Papermakers squeaked through with the winning tally in the eighth.

Peerenboom Wins
Hank Peerenboom got credit for the Kimberly win. He relieved Marv Smits in the fourth after a pair of Papermaker errors had given Menasha a 3-0 lead. All the runs off Smits were unearned.

The win was the first in Mid-Eastern conference play for the Papermakers who have a 1-1 record. The Jays are also 1-1. Menasha went out in front with a pair of runs in the third. Remmel and Selbach singled after two were out and

Vike Trackmen Win 2nd Straight Dual Meet

Gary Scovel Takes 3 Firsts Against Michigan Tech

Lawrence college has spoiled Michigan Tech's track debut for the fifth straight season.

The Vikes whipped Tech, 82 2/3 - 48 2/3, here Wednesday afternoon for their second straight dual triumph.

Lawrence sophomore Gary Scovel ran his victory record to seven in two dual meets. Wednesday, he took firsts in the high hurdles, low hurdles and broad jump.

Jim Leatham was a double winner for Lawrence, which captured first place in 11 of the 15 events.

Vike-Ted Sutherland upset teammate Tad Pinkerton in the mile. The Appleton senior won the event in 4:41.3.

Carl Schwendler, Lawrence junior from Appleton, fired the javelin 174 feet, 3 inches — the best effort of his career — to win that event.

Dave Mulford and John Winsor dominated their specialties for the third straight time — in dual and quadrangular competition. Mulford ran the half-mile in 2:01.8, and Winsor threw the discus 126 feet, 8 inches.

O'Donnell Is Familiar With Goodland Field

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN

For Bill O'Donnell, it will be a kind of homecoming when the Fox Cities Foxes set up shop this weekend for their first home stand at Goodland field.

O'Donnell, an Oshkosh resident for the last three years, is the lone Wisconsin player on

Pirates Extend Win Streak to 5 Games

Kline Allows Only 1 Ball to be Hit to Left Field in Coliseum

By The Associated Press

Kline gained his first victory and first complete game with that formula Wednesday night, cautiously spinning a 3-hitter that beat the Dodgers, 3-1, as the Pirates won their fifth in a row — the longest streak of the season in the National league.

Only one ball went to left field against Kline, Gil Hodges' RBI single in the fourth. He allowed only four other balls to be hit to the left side of the infield in a great control performance against a Dodger lineup that offered six right-handed hitters.

San Francisco banged back into first place with a 4-home run, 10-1 victory over Philadelphia after the Chicago Cubs, also hitting four homers, had knocked off Milwaukee 8-2. Frank Robinson's second home run of the game gave Cincinnati a 5-4, 10-inning decision over St. Louis.

Don Drysdale, the right-hander expected to be the Dodger ace, lost his fourth when the Bucs scored two in the eighth.

The Cardinals scored two off Joe Nuxhall, but got only three hits after Tom Aker relieved with none out and two on in the first. One was a two-run homer by rookie Gene Green that tied it 4-all in the ninth and left the victory for Hal Jeffcoat, who got Del Ennis to hit into a bases-loaded double play in the 10th. Morrie Martin lost it in relief.

Daryl Spencer and rookies Bob Schmidt, Orlando Cepeda and Jim Davenport hit the Giant homers, for nine runs. Johnny Antonelli won his second.

went to second and third on a steal. Nelson followed with a clean single to plate both runners.

In the third Gammey and Wilde singled and Gammey scored when Don Hearden bobbled Neubauer's grounder. Menasha added another tally in the sixth when Robinson was safe on an error and Gammey rattled a long 3-bagger.

Kimberly's rally started when Hank Peerenboom singled after two were out in the sixth. Bill Van Elzen followed it with a single through the box and both runners went to second and third on a passed ball. An error allowed both men to score.

Polman Singles

In the seventh Selbach started off by walking Jeff Vander Velden and Bob Robinson. Chuck Zarter fanned but Warren Polman came through with a bloop single to load the bases. Jim Peerenboom was hit in the elbow by Selbach's fast ball to force in a run and the fourth tally scored when Bill Van Elzen walked. Konetzke came back to the mound and struck out Jack Lamers to end the inning and regulation play.

Hank Peerenboom whiffed the side in the top of the eighth. With one out in the last of the frame Hearden singled, Robinson walked, and Zarter came through with a single to load the bases. Polman sent a pop-up to first that was dropped but Hearden was cut down at the plate. Selbach came back in and walked home the winning run, issuing a pass to sub Hank Emmers.

and Scruggs went to second on the play.

Right fielder Don Schidt and catcher Bill Wood grounded out in the infield and then first baseman Don Wolf smashed his third single of the afternoon, a scorcher down the right field line, and Scruggs raced home.

Second baseman Mike Gilboy took a called third strike to end the game.

Nelson, also a lefthander, outduelled Elliott for the victory, although yielding two more hits than the five which the winners collected. He eliminated 11 Lawrentians on strikeouts and walked two.

Wind 2nd Game

The Vikes were the superior team afield, committing but two errors despite the windy conditions which saw dust storms erupting on the skinned SSAC infield throughout the contest. The visitors, who were winning their second straight game (in six starts), erred seven times.

Four of Ripon's five runs came on wild pitches or passed balls. The visitors took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first when Jack Sturm singled, raced to third on Tom Troestler's double and tallied when an Elliott curve took off in the wind.

Lawrence shot ahead, 2-1, in the last half of the frame. Gilboy reached on an error on Sturm and then went to second on center fielder Joe Quick's single to right. An unsuccessful attempt to nip the lead runner on Harry Hartonian's infield grounder loaded the bases.

After Elliott whiffed, Ramsey slashed his second straight single, to center, and Gilboy and Quick scampered home. Scruggs struck out and Schidt popped out to end the inning.

Ev Wood Homers

Ripon broke up the tie with a singleton in the top of the fifth on shortstop Ed Wood's home run smash, with the wind, over the left field fence.

The score stayed at 3-2 until Elliott's infirmities caught up with him in the eighth. Sturm walked to open the stanza and then Troestler reached on a fielder's choice. Sturm went to third on an error and then came home on a wild pitch.

Meanwhile, Elliott was gritting his teeth to strike out Jim Wolff and John Benka. When Nelson walked and moved around to score on wild pitches, Coach Don Boya went to Franke.

Lawrence, now 0-3 in its first

Your Left Knee Should Bend At Start of the Backswing

BY DR. CARY MIDDLECOFF

Patient's Complaint: Fouled-up Backswing

Diagnosis: Left Knee Action Wrong

Treatment: Your left knee should bend inward—not outward—as you begin your backswing. Bending the knee straight out, which is a bigger golf fault than it logically should be. makes for an awkward backswing because it results in an improper transfer of weight.

As the backswing begins, the weight must be transferred laterally or sideways to the right leg. Also, the body must turn so as to coil itself for the hit. To accomplish these things, the left leg must yield toward the right leg.

The first yielding action should be an inward turn of the left knee (about 4 inches) and a very slight inward turn of the left ankle. If the backswing is to be a full one—as for a full 5-iron shot or longer—a further yielding will be needed. To do this, lift your heel to permit a bigger turn. But just the inward turning of the knee and ankle will be enough on swings for 6-iron distance and shorter.

Never bent the left knee outward as the swing begins. If you're guilty of this fault, your game won't improve much until you quit it.

run over the left-center field wall, 365 feet from the plate. It was his second of the season.

The Bees scored three in the third. Jack Evans walked. Don Voigt delivered a swinging bunt down the third base line, and when Van Dyke threw wildly, Evans scored and Voigt took third. Fred Caviness doubled in Voigt and scored on Dennis Loudenback's single.

Bloop Singles

In the fifth, Voigt blooped a single to right with one out. Caviness blooped another hit to center. Louis Johnson forced Voigt at third. Loudenback singled Caviness in. The other runners moved to second and third on the throw to the plate. Woods greeted a new pitcher, Mitchell, with a 2-run single to left.

In the Fox Cities sixth, Van Dyke doubled to left center to score "Tex" Taylor, who had singled. After Van Dyke's double, Brewer retired the next 12 batters in order.

The Bees' final run scored in the sixth after two were out. Evans singled, Voigt walked and Caviness singled in the run. Johnson also singled, but Voigt was out at the plate. "Sandy" Valdespino to Bob Payne.

Silky Sullivan's Name 1st in Entry Box

Nadir Won't Run; Jewel's Reward, Tim Tam in Field

Louisville, Ky. — (P) — Silky Sullivan, one of the three top choices for Saturday's Kentucky derby, wasn't slow getting away today. His name was the first dropped in the entry box at Churchill Downs.

Seven minutes after the box opened at 7 o'clock this morning, Harry Silbert, agent for jockey Willie Shoemaker who'll ride the West coast flash, filled out the entry blank.

C. V. Whitney's Flamingo, the only non-winner in line for a shot at the $125,000 added purse, was the second of the expected field of 18 or 19 to be entered.

Gone Fishin' from the Llan-gollen farm of Mrs. M. E. Lunn, conqueror of Silky Sullivan in his last two starts at shorter distances than the Derby, was No. 3. He was followed a few minutes later by Lincoln Road from the Sunny Blue farm.

Benedicto 5th

Benedicto, a lightly regarded colt who had been considered a doubtful starter, was the fifth to be entered.

The names of Mrs. A. Can-nuli's Chance II Tony and Georgie Lewis' Martins Rul-lah were in the box before trainer Ivan Parke entered the 22-2 and 18 knockouts. He ne-Maine Chance farm's powerful 3-ply entry of Jewel's Reward, Jet's Alibi and Ebony Pearl.

Eddie Arcazo, five times winner of the Derby, was listed as the rider of Jewel's Reward. Manual Ycaza will pilot Jet's Alibi and Dave Erb will be up on Ebony Pearl.

Creates Surprise

Trainer Moody Jolley created something of a surprise when he announced that Nadir, champion with Jewel's Reward of the 1957 2-year-olds, would not be entered.

Jolley gave no reason but earlier in the week owner A. B. Hancock of the Claiborne farm said Nadir probably would not be in top form for another three weeks after suffering an attack of intestinal flu during the winter. Nadir ran a poor fourth in last Tuesday's Derby trial stakes.

At 8:56 this morning the last of the race's big three was entered when the name of Calumet Farm's Tim Tam was dropped into the box. He'll be ridden by Ismael Valenzuela.

UW Disciplines Two

More Students for Part in Water Fight

Madison — (P) — The University of Wisconsin reported Tuesday that two more students have been placed on disciplinary probation as a result of April 16 and 17 disorders in the campus area.

Kirby E. Brant, Wauwatosa junior, and Richard P. Buedingen, sophomore from Oconomowoc, were placed on a probationary status for the rest of the semester.

The action, taken by the student conduct committee, brought to 15 the number of students against whom action was taken as result of the disorders. The acts involved a water fight and pelting police who tried to break up crowd gathering. Five students were suspended, seven were placed on disciplinary probation and three received reprimands which will be attached to their university records.

Hitting Homer Makes Taylor Want to Laugh in Haney's Face

Chicago — (P) — Hitting a home run does more things to some players than others. It made the Chicago Cubs' rookie Sammy Taylor want to laugh in Fred Haney's face.

Sammy's first major league homer was delivered Wednesday against Haney's Milwaukee Braves, the team which traded him off last winter in the Bob Rush deal. The Cubs won, 8-2.

Catcher Taylor started in the Braves' farm system in 1951 and never was given a shot at a job with Milwaukee.

"Hitting it against the Braves' really made me happy," he said. "In fact, what I really felt like doing was to go over to Fred Haney and laugh in the little rooster's face."

Jesse Bowdry Takes Decision Over Hinnant

Chicago — (P) — Some day young Jesse Bowdry of St. Louis is undoubtedly will gain a ration by the National Boxing association — but not yet.

At least that's the opinion of Fred Saddy, chairman of the NBA rating committee, who Wednesday night watched the 20-year-old light heavyweight take a unanimous 10-round decision over veteran Clarence Hinnant of Washington, D. C.

The fight in Chicago stadium was Bowdry's national TV debut and his ninth straight triumph. He now has a record of 22-2 and 18 knockouts. He ne-Maine Chance farm's powerful 3-ply entry of Jewel's Reward, Jet's Alibi and Ebony Pearl. Eddie Arcazo, five times winner of the Derby, was listed as the rider of Jewel's Reward. was the ace of the Appleton staff, O'Donnell had a no-hitter going for eight innings. Finally, the Papermakers knocked him out with three straight singles, and he was charged with a 2-1 loss. Gilmore struck out 16 in that one.

O'Donnell went on to notch a 14-11 record in his rookie season.

In 1954, with St. Cloud in the Class C Northern league, O'Donnell won 12 and lost nine. In 1955, he posted an 11-7 record for Rock Hill, S. C., of the Class B Tri-State league.

O'Donnell married the former Carmaine Pelky, of Oshkosh, in 1953. For the next two years he stayed out of baseball voluntarily and worked at the Lakeview mill of Kimberly-Clark.

Bill says he missed baseball during those two years and decided to come back for one more "good shot at it." This is the first year in the Washington organization for the 22-year-old pitcher.

Attended Villanova

O'Donnell was born in Canadaigua, N. Y., and lived there until he took up residence in Oshkosh in '55. He was a 3-sport (baseball, basketball, football) man in high school and attended college at Villanova for one year. He signed a pro baseball contract in his freshman year.

O'Donnell believes control is one of a pitcher's very best friends and hopes to be able to emulate Robin Roberts in that respect. He says he would like to win at least 15 for the Foxes this season.

The O'Donnells have two children: Kevin, 2, and Karen, 10 months.

A good many of O'Donnell's Oshkosh friends are expected to journey here to watch him and the rest of the Foxes play. "They've really missed baseball in Oshkosh since the end of the State league days," says O'Donnell.

Sister M. Thomasita Discusses Modern Art During AHS 'Creative' Evening

More than 400 persons attended the first annual art exhibit by students of Appleton High school Wednesday night and heard about and saw evidence of the place of art in education.

Sister M. Thomasita, artist, lecturer, and educator, spoke to the audience of parents, students and teachers on "The Need for Art in Education." A teacher herself at Cardinal Stritch college, Milwaukee, she spoke from her experience with young people and as an artist in her own right. She has won distinction for her liturgical art work.

Art, she said, was fundamentally a creation from the person himself and required not only the use of the hands but also the head. An artist expresses himself in the creation of something, and in the making of that creation becomes a better person. Sister Thomasita stressed the creativity of the artist and the natural instinct for man to be creative in order to live an enriched life.

All children, she pointed out, have the ability to create, for all persons have an innate tendency to express themselves. Too often something happens to the child's interest in creating and the sense of beauty and creativity is lost. Since creativity is a need in a person's life, the arts have a necessary place in the curriculum and should not be relegated as "fringe" courses. The arts, Sister Thomasita stated, are "the finish and polish of an education that makes education worthwhile."

Serility of Life

People need the satisfaction of creating something, she continued. There is a "sterility of life that has no knowledge, enjoyment or understanding of beauty." This makes art an important part of a person's education and parents should encourage children in their art work, she stated.

Art is an individual thing and defies copying, the speaker said. Art is unique because it expresses the artist's "insight rather than his eyesight," Sister Thomasita explained.

Art gives an expression to the age in which the artist lives, hence art must be modern to express the age. Modern art, the lecturer explained, was an interpretation of life today through the eyes of an artist who sees things more intensely. Art gives meaning to life, she concluded, and since an artist has a richer and more sensitive view of life, he becomes a better person.

The work of more than 100 students was exhibited in the art corridor and art rooms on the third floor. Students were on hand to direct visitors and answer questions.

Students Demonstrate

In the art rooms, students were demonstrating the way in which they carry on their artistic efforts. In the ceramic work room, one boy was chiseling a wooden bowl, a girl was polishing a stone for a piece of jewelry, one was throwing a bowl on a wheel, another was shaping a vase from clay, and some were demonstrating use of kilns and gas torches.

Standing at large drawing boards in the art room were two boys who were showing how they started their large paintings. Preliminary drawings or sketches already had been made and the boys were beginning the task of applying color in the shading and degree they wished.

Visitors asked questions of student workers and watched the work being done. It was the general consensus that the exhibit was worthwhile and gave the public an inside view of what is going on in the art courses.

Refreshments were served in the third floor corridor by members of the Art Workshop, which sponsored the evening to the public. Assisting were some of the 215 art students enrolled in the classes conducted by Michael Brandt, AHS art instructor.

Heyn admitted to Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmieg that he broke into the school March 6, 7, 11 and April 3 with another 18-year-old youth, Daniel E. Solberg, 1100 W. Wisconsin street, awaiting trial after he asked to consult a lawyer several weeks ago.

Citizen Protests 8-Foot Fences for Swimming Pools

A protest of the proposed ordinance requiring an 8-foot-high fence around backyard swimming pools was received today by Mayor Clarence A. Mitchell.

Tany Agronin, 1424 W. Taylor street, says in a letter to the mayor, "I don't believe that this is advised and necessary and if anybody wants to see a satisfactory setup, they can check the layout at my home."

Agronin says the pool at his home is surrounded by a 6-foot-high fence. It is sufficient, he maintains. He also questions a requirement that would provide a setback from the lot line for the fence.

The proposed ordinance, recommended by the welfare and recreation committee after a study of a proposal made by Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings, will be voted on for the first time by the city council next Wednesday night.

$740,000 Project

Late October Starting Date for Oneida Bridge

Construction of the $740,000 S. Oneida street drawbridge probably won't begin until late October, Director of Public Works Edwin J. Duszynski reported today.

Latest word from Fenner-Brey Engineering corporation, Manitowoc firm which is drafting the bridge plans, indicates final plans will be ready for council perusal about the end of June, Duszynski said.

This means bids probably will be taken in late July or early August, with the contract award coming about mid-September, said the works director.

Bonds to finance the construction won't be sold until the bids are taken. Three months is about average for the time needed to get necessary money from the bond sale after bids are taken, Duszynski said.

Contractors do not start work until money is available so the 3-month time lapse for the bond

Situation Seesaws on City Produce Counters

Some Fruits, Vegetables Take Large Increases; Others Show Major Decreases

It's a seesaw operation on Appleton produce counters this week. Some prices are high, some are low and there are few buys in moderate ranges.

Large increases were taken by lettuce and celery, for instance, while asparagus, cucumbers and green peppers took significant decreases.

Lettuce is up 10 cents to 29 cents a head, celery is up 10 cents to 39 cents a bunch, asparagus is down about 10 cents to 19 cents a pound, cucumbers are down 10 cents to 15 cents apiece and green peppers are down from 10 to 15 cents to 13 cents apiece.

Lettuce supplies are irregular now and retailers say supplies could be the shortest in years this June. So the shopper can expect a corresponding jump in prices. On the other hand, home grown asparagus will be available soon and the price should drop to between 12 and 14 cents a pound.

Tenderness Guide
Look at the tip of asparagus for a guide to its tenderness. If the tip is open, resembling fingers spread apart, the asparagus is old. In best quality, the tip resembles the thumb and fingers held closely together.

Best vegetable buys are carrots at 13 cents a bunch, broccoli at 29 cents a bunch, cauliflower from 19 to 29 cents a head, spinach at 29 cents a pound, rhubarb at 15 cents a pound, peas in the pod at 25 cents a pound and wax beans at 19 cents a pound.

Considered high are green, cabbage at 10 cents a pound, a rich cream sauce and tender cabbage from 13 to 15 cents. But for variety, why not vary 10 pounds for 69 cents and Idaho potatoes at 10 pounds for 79 cents. Despite a penny a pound decrease on the latter since last week, the Idahoes still are comparatively high.

Few fruits are good buys right now, as counters suffer from the between season slump. Apples and citrus fruits are on their way out and command high prices. Winesap apples, for instance, are about 23 cents a pound, grapefruit are 13 cents apiece, and Florida juice and California Valencia oranges are 69 cents a dozen.

Also high are honeydew melons at 59 cents apiece, cantaloupe at 49 cents apiece and strawberries at about 35 cents a pint. The prices will come down as supplies increase.

About the best fruit buy is Cuban pineapple, from 29 to 33 cents apiece.

Meat Unchanged
The meat picture still remains unchanged. Chickens, from 39 to 45 cents a pound, are by far the best buy while other meats still retain the high price tags they've been wearing for the last several months.

A sampling of prices shows sirloin steak from 89 to 99 cents, round steak from 79 to 89 cents, rib roast from 79 to 89 cents, pork steak from 55 to 59 cents, pork chops from 79 to 89 cents, veal shoulder steak at about 75 cents, spare ribs at 59 cents and pork roast from 59 cents a pound upward.

Eggs are down a few pennies. A dozen Grade A large range from 49 to 55 cents.

Croquette Capers
Meat croquettes served with a rich cream sauce and tender cabbage from 13 to 15 cents. But for variety, why not vary 10 pounds for 69 cents and Idaho potatoes at 10 pounds for 79 cents. Despite a penny a pound de-

Applesauce Cake Is an Old-Fashioned dessert for today's table. It is especially good with brown sugar frosting garnished with whole walnuts.

Applesauce Cake

Up-to-Date Recipe Offered For Old-Fashioned Dessert

BY EDITH M. BARBER

An old-fashioned applesauce cake! This time, my correspondent is a man who probably expects a recipe that calls for the plentiful product.

Barber

A spring form is best for baking such a large cake but the batter can be spread in a large oblong pan. After one hour, the cake should be tested by inserting a skewer which should come out clean when the cake is ready to remove from the oven. Of course, the recipe can be halved, if you wish. This type of cake keeps moist a long time, but should not be frosted until it is to be eaten within a day or two.

My own old home recipe calls for seeded raisins that I find difficult to find nowadays. I am discussing this matter with a representative of the raisin growers. I discovered that they suggested, the recipe for this, may also be halved and spread on the half of the oblong cake, while the remainder may be kept for later use and placed in a tight container.

Spiced Applesauce Cake

1 cup shortening
2-3 cup sugar
1 cup dark molasses
1 cup seedless raisins
1 cup chopped dates
1 cup chopped walnuts
3 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups canned applesauce
Brown Sugar Frosting
Whole walnuts for garnish
Cream together shortening and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time, beating after each. Add molasses.
Dredge raisins, dates and chopped walnuts in one-half cup flour.
Sift together remaining flour.

baking soda, baking powder, spices and salt. Add alternately with applesauce to creamed mixture. Add raisins, date and nut meats.

Pour into 10 - inch greased spring form pan. Bake in moderate 350-degree oven one and one-fourth hours. Cool 10 to 15 minutes. Remove from pan and cool on wire rack.

Frost top and sides of cake with Brown Sugar Frosting. Garnish with whole walnuts.

Brown Sugar Frosting
1 cup butter
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 cup milk
1 1/2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar

Melt butter in saucepan. Stir in brown sugar. Boil, stirring constantly, over low heat for two minutes. Stir in milk, bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Cool to lukewarm. Gradually add confectioners' sugar, and beat until thick. Add vanilla extract. Let stand several minutes until icing is good consistency for spreading.

Herb Fennel Makes Stew Distinctive

It's that little something extra in this case, it's the herb, fennel—in meat cookery which makes a stew or casserole dish distinctive in its own class. Boneless beef for stew needs a long, slow simmering process, as you probably know. During this time, the fennel seeds slowly blend their flavor with the other ingredients. Fennel is actually a member of the parsley family and is sometimes found in such products as cookies, pastries, and sweet pickles. Fennel has the appearance of celery and the aroma of anise. It is quite popular in Scandinavian and Italian dishes.

Beef Stew with Fennel
4 slices bacon

2 1/2 pounds boneless beef, cut in 1 1/2-inch pieces.
1/2 cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 cup water
1 medium onion, quartered
1 clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon fennel seeds
1 cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
2 tablespoons chili sauce
Cook bacon until crisp. Remove bacon from pan and crumble.
Mix together flour, salt and pepper. Dredge meat in seasoned flour. Brown on all sides in bacon drippings. Pour off drippings. Sprinkle any remaining seasoned flour over meat. Add bacon and remaining ingredients.
Cover tightly and simmer three to 3 1/2 hours or until meat is tender. Thicken liquid if necessary. Serve over noodles, if desired.

Pastel Mints Add Color, Decor to Shower Parties

Planning is what makes the bridal or baby shower a successful party and that means a complete menu thought out beforehand right down to the last tidbit.

By including little extra foods with care, such as colorful mints, the pastel decorations of the luncheon table can be carried out with finesse and charm. It may be these little color touches that will make these feminine gatherings more appealing.

Usually the finale of the luncheon leaves a lasting remembrance. Here it is essential not to forget the last minute tidbits that mark a gracious hostess. After dinner mints, chosen with care to match or highlight the color scheme of the springtime table, are easy to obtain.

One point to remember is to be sure to remove every particle of the main course foods before serving the beverage and mints.

Herb Sweetbreads Idea for Luncheon

Herb Sweetbreads is suggested as a food to win laurels at a luncheon or any of the neighborhood parties that seem to sprout in the spring.

The herb accent is a blend of pepper, celery salt, dry mustard, thyme, marjoram and salt. Minced parsley adds a bit of bright color to this dish.

Herb Sweetbreads

Water
1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup flour
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon celery salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon thyme
½ teaspoon marjoram
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon minced parsley
Cover sweetbreads with water and add vinegar and salt. Cover and simmer 20 minutes. Drain and remove membrane. Break into pieces.
Mix together flour, pepper, celery salt, mustard, thyme, marjoram and salt.
Dredge sweetbreads in seasoned flour. Brown in butter, turning occasionally. Sprinkle with parsley and serve immediately.

Sales Tax Issue Treated Warily By State Unit

Development Division
Official Noncommittal
In Current Newsletter

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The relation of tax policy to Wisconsin's industrial development is handled gingerly in the current newsletter of the new industrial development division of the state executive department.

Some aspects are discussed in non-committal fashion by Philip Sundal, a staff official of the department and editor of the department's publications. Those who believe a sales tax will be a stimulus to industrial expansion "may or may not be right," he suggests.

But he adds that a "thorn in the flesh" of those who hold that view is the fact that Illinois industrial and population growth, where government relies heavily upon a sales tax, have not quite equalled Wisconsin where the state and local government have not yet turned to the sales tax.

Other Considerations

But Sundal also wrote: "As industrial development people, we should consider the question of change in terms of psychological advantage as well as in terms of eliminating probable real tax disadvantages for selected kinds of producers competing for certain kinds of markets."

"We cannot ignore the possibility that job opportunities are jeopardized by the strong feeling that the tax system burdens industry."

The specialist also remarks that a part of the Wisconsin tax burden, as measured against industry's tax load elsewhere, is that total government spending per person is relatively high in Wisconsin. He said recent estimates put it at $250 per capita in Wisconsin, against $210 for Illinois, $190 for Indiana and $235 for Iowa.

"Do we want to spend $40 to $60 less per capita than we are, to place us in the same budget category as, for example, Illinois and Indiana?" Sundal asked. "Part of the whole tax burden is lodged right here."

Future Occupants Sheriff Donald Heinritz, left, and County Police Captain Ronald Decker, both at extreme right, look over their new quarters in the Outagamie county courthouse as workmen finish a partition for the radio room. The new quarters will be on the north end of the courthouse, where the county nurse and superintendent of schools formerly were quartered. For the first time, sheriff's investigators will have interrogation rooms in which they can question prisoners. State department of public welfare probation officers will move into the area formerly occupied by county police and the radio. Contractor Len Jochman was low bidder at $1,475 for the work. Strange Camaraderie Links Those Who Follow Bullfights Seville, Spain — There's a strange camaraderie among the kind of foreigners who make the big bullfighting festivals in Spain — the San Fermin in Pamplona, the Feria here in Seville, in this lovely palm-studded old Moorish town split by the Guadalquivir river — and in the big formal festival of San Isidro in Madrid.

They gravitate unerringly to each other, in the big pavilions in which a million gallons of sherry is drunk, in the bar and dining room of the better hotels like the Andalusia palace, or the Alfonso III, or the ancient mansions which throw open their flowered courtyards and noble balconies to temporary paying guests.

Jake and Nancy Hamon from Dallas beat me and Ricardo. Sure here by a hit, because they flew and we drove from world.

Madrid, but we knew without question where to find them at midnight. They would be watching the unloading of the bulls, the driving of them into the corral.

The headwaiter of the cafe Juanito Belmonte, it was no overlooking the bull unloading accident to see Generalissimo beamed. "Aha," he said, when Ricardo and I arrived. "The law and the Duchess of Alba cuadrilla is again intact." He was referring to the July festival in Pamplona, where the same faces had the same lunch, same dinner and the same no - going - to - bed - until - dawn.

The flower vendor gave us a warm embrace and a free car, because she was a Pamplona person, too, as were the waiters, the head waiters, all the people who travel around from fiesta to fiesta. It's a queer kind of snobbery, greeted warmly by the help — almost a conspiracy of friendship.

Secret Society. It resembles the secret society of people who stride the world. My gypsies, at a flam-enco we gave in the Panoleta, or Gitanillo de Triana, were old friends of mine from Barcelona — transplanted Andalusians who had come home again but were happy to see their true old friends from the north. This was all by accident, but you get the old feeling of belonging to the same club.

At the Flamenco given by the headwaiter of the cafe Juanito Belmonte, it was no overlooking the bull unloading accident to see Generalissimo beamed. "Aha," he said, when Ricardo and I arrived. "The law and the Duchess of Alba cuadrilla is again intact." He was referring to the July festival in Pamplona, where the same faces had the same lunch, same dinner and the same no - going - to - bed - until - dawn.

The Desk and Chair of Professor Hiram A. Jones were draped by stunned students after the popular Lawrence faculty member slumped dead in this classroom in 1898. His 44-year career on the faculty is the longest ever accrued at Lawrence, although Dean Carl J. Waterman came close, with 43 years, before his retirement in 1952. The stark classroom pictured has been converted into a comfortable Latin library in Hiram Jones' honor, and a professorial chair also bears his name.

This is the fourth in a series of eight articles on endowed chairs at Lawrence college.

frailties rather than their 85 and 67 years of oak-hearted living respectively that they are remembered by the casual digger into the past.

Colman is recalled as "the preacher who lost his voice," while Jones is "the professor who died at his desk." Today both men's names are perpetuated in the college catalogue, for professorial chairs have been endowed in their honor.

Henry Root Colman was much more to Lawrence college than "the preacher who lost his voice." He was one of a trio of Methodist ministers who rode the length of the Fox River from Green Bay to Oshkosh, looking for a site for Lawrence college. When they finally fixed the spot at Appleton, Colman rode on to Milwaukee to scrape together a board of trustees.

His is the second name to appear in the act to incorporate Lawrence Institute of Wisconsin, he was on the first board of trustees, and when he lost his voice from too much preaching, he was Lawrence college's first steward and boarding house keeper.

Sixth Generation

Colman was a sixth-generation New Englander whose ancestors had come to Massachusetts in 1636. He was steered toward the Methodist ministry by his older brother Seymour, although his twin brother who was presumably subjected to the same influences, did not become a cleric. After various church jobs in the east, in 1840 Henry Root Colman was assigned to come to Green Bay to be a missionary to the Oneida Indians. Like most easterners, he had only a hazy notion of geography, and somehow had associated Green Bay with Greenland. It is reported he was delighted winter didn't come until October.

"When Moses' hand reached the dog, he was soon in the open and one strong arm held the dog kicking in the air, while the other plied the rod, whether the door was open or shut. Occasionally an Indian in church did not escape the arms of sleep. Moses' keen eye soon discovered the offender, and the whack of the corrective rod was much more startling than the 'amens' of the worshippers.

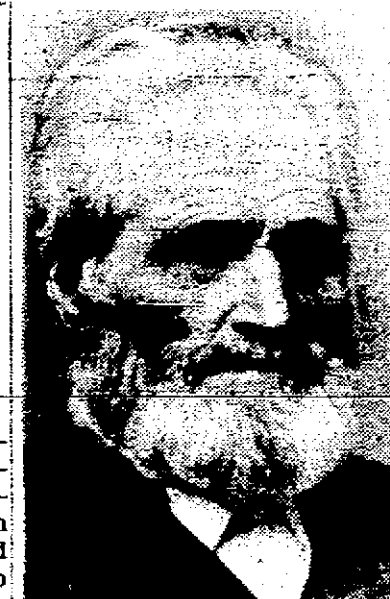

The only waters that the rod of this Moses divided were the tears of anger of the culprit from the tears of laughter of his neighbors. It was whispered that if one came to church with a feeling of somnolency, he sometimes gave the owner of the rod a piece of tobacco to blind his eyes."

Labors Five Years

For five years Henry Root Colman labored among the Oneidas. In addition to things of the spirit, he gave advice on farming, and once was the presiding minister at an execution of a half-breed who had killed his three little children. The Oneidas dispensed their own justice, and the chiefs —

Hiram A. Jones

Henry Root Colman

after consultation in the Methodist schoolhouse — had voted for the death sentence. Colman offered a prayer for the soul of the condemned, and with the warriors fitted out with uniforms and bayoneted rifles (both borrowed from Fort Howard), the culprit was ceremoniously hanged.

Colman even offered an occasional refinement to the Indian way of life. At his first funeral of a woman neighbor, the coffin was unstained pine boards, and the sound of the hammer on the lid echoed over the congregation. After that, Colman supplied stain for the boards and screws for the lid.

Of all the Colmans (there were six when they came, seven when they left the reservation), only Charles learned the Indian language. Therefore the rest could sympathize with the Indians' attempts at English. The Oneidas never could pronounce an "r"; the result was usually an "l." One day an Oneida visitor was calling on the Colmans when past, the window rode Louis Rouse, a tall and corpulent man from Green Bay. With a twinkle in his eye, the Indian said, "There goes that great big Louise."

One of Henry Root Colman's favorite stories had to do with the impassive attitude his charges maintained toward providing themselves with the daily necessities. "Two men started early one morning for a hunt. Like Napoleon's armies they were to live on the country. As they returned at evening the next day, having taken nothing, one casually said, 'I believe I am hungry.'"

"Ugh! You had breakfast before starting and I didn't," was the scornful response."

Values in Government

In a discussion of the possible relationship between tax policy and tax burdens on the one hand and industrial growth on the other, Philip Sundal of the state division of industrial development in a current bulletin recites what is in danger of becoming a trite sentiment.

He says Wisconsin has good and efficient government. Wisconsin people get good value for their tax dollars, is the way he puts it. But he adds yearningly that political scientists have not yet devised a convincing way to document the assertion.

We are willing to concede it without statistical proof. We defer to no one in our admiration and respect for the general efficiency and prudence of governmental administration in Wisconsin. It is strikingly graft free. Our officials have avoided — perhaps out of a healthy respect for the attentiveness of their constituents, but they have avoided nevertheless — some of the more striking profligacy of governmental officialdom in other jurisdictions. All of this, of course, is not especially to the credit of the politicians, as such, but to the people of Wisconsin who over the years have produced those politicians.

Moreover, all this is not very important, if we are actually spending too much for government in Wisconsin, or if our governmental burdens are strikingly out of proportion to those of other taxpayers, in other states and localities.

It matters not that civil servants are wholesome and honest and hard-working and, according to their lights, giving a dollar's worth of work for a dollar's worth of pay—if their functions are ones we don't really need, or if their costs represent tax payments on the part of a private citizen that could have been spent to his superior benefit out of his own decision and according to his own tastes.

The fact is that Wisconsin government, state and local, is expensive when compared with that of other states. There are states nearby where standards of integrity and efficiency in public administration are lax. We need not name them here. But there are other states, among them Minnesota and Iowa, where standards of public morality surely compare favorably with our own—and where the total cost of state and local government is measurably below that which we are paying here.

Thus far the people of Wisconsin have evidently been content with the record as it has been made. The state administration has shown a remarkable stability for 20 years. Yet it may be a straw in the wind that such complaints as we have heard about the current administration are not that it has been too parsimonious, but that it has been too liberal in acceding to spending demands. The time may come when belt tightening will be in order. We have luxuriated for a long time. State and local tax prospects suggest that prudence and resistance to new spending may be as crucial in maintaining a healthy tax base in the future as reforms of the tax structure by way of redistribution of the liability.

Higher Education Conference

State Sen. Gaylord Nelson, Democratic candidate for governor, charged Saturday that the Governor's Conference on Higher Education was merely a grandstand play "to cover up a record of indifference to expanding educational opportunity in Wisconsin."

As the Post-Crescent pointed out months ago the conference was a publicity maneuver to make known to the people of the state what was being done in the matter of higher education. It was no cover-up for Gov. Thomson because he actually had very little to do with it except lend the prestige of his name and presence. The conference was an outgrowth of the President's Conference for Education Beyond the High School and was arranged by the delegates to that conference on the regional level. It was mainly conceived by educators and laymen who were anxious that the people in the state know what cooperation and expansion is being planned in Wisconsin and the financial problems involved.

Mr. Nelson may have been particularly annoyed because reaction in small discussion groups favored expanded loan facilities with revolving funds rather than too much emphasis upon scholarships as outlined in a bill Mr. Nelson had proposed. Many delegates, apparently appalled at the backing of federal aid given at the White House educational conference on elementary and secondary education several years ago, thought there was a strong possibility that families willing to go into debt for a TV set, a second automobile or a trip to Europe ought to be willing to borrow for a youngster's higher education.

Actually this is only part of the problem. The cost of higher education has been steadily rising, not only in the private institutions which must rely upon endowments or gifts, but in public colleges and universities where the percentage of the cost paid by the student has risen steadily. Unfortunately the part of the tax dollar formerly used for educational purposes has been snapped up for other projects.

The Governor's Conference will not result in any sweeping changes in Wisconsin's educational situation. It was not so intended. But it did serve to focus attention of at least 500 vocal educators and laymen on the need for continued expansion and cooperation.

Humiliating Questions or a Mark of Growth

About 46 years ago a Milwaukee county district attorney compiled a list of questions to be used in the investigation of prospective jurors. The police eventually used the questions by asking them of the neighbors and fellow workers of the prospective jurors; but in later years, because it was more convenient, they often asked the questions of the person directly concerned.

Apparently no one ever complained of the questions. Recently they came to public attention and steps were taken to correct the practice immediately. The Milwaukee Journal thinks answering this list of questions was a humiliating experience. It finds it shocking that no one thought to revise them or to doubt the propriety. It thinks it even worse that "not one free citizen, apparently, in all of those years rose up on his hind legs and said he'd be damned if he'd submit to such impertinent abuse of his privacy."

We are inclined to doubt that the people of Milwaukee county were "meekly or unthinkingly giving away their rights to the inquisitor," as the Journal puts it. We would like to think that the questions were tolerated because they were in fact of no importance. If they ever were of importance and a matter to be resisted it was 46 years ago when they were drafted by the district attorney and asked in secret. The fact that the questions were asked directly of the prospective jurors in recent years and answered without objections, seems to mean that most people no longer have a fear of telling their religion or politics.

There was a time when people would have rebelled at such questions out of fear. It is nice to think that we now have reached a level of tolerance where people see no great need for concealing such information. If that is the case the old questions, now happily abandoned, indicated an advance of civilization rather than a surrender of freedom.

Farm Subsidy Critics Called Hypocrites

From "Badger Briefs", published by Consolidated Badger Co-op

In order to get rid of all farm price supports the metropolitan press has indulged in a continuing barrage of propaganda showing the farmer as the principal source of all our nation's financial problems. We can't have missiles and Sputniks because we are eating butter at government expense. Five billion dollars a year or $1,000 for each farm family is the picture presented to create consumer resentment against farm aid.

Senator Aiken stated in answer to this figure that at least half of that money was spent as a direct subsidy to consumers.

In 1957 the farmers net income was 17 billion dollars—now it is 12 billion dollars, almost 1-3 lower.

Because of this disparity the USDA released a statement recently that consumer cost of living over this period would have been 70 billion dollars higher if farmers income had kept pace with the rest of the nation. This completely dwarfs all subsidies paid to farmers during that period. Net loss to the government since 1951 on all farm price supports has been 34 billion dollars.

Even the city press, in between their tirades against farm aid, has indulged in rare lapses of forgetfulness and published the statement that the price index had been stable in recent years because farm income had gone down to make room for increases to labor and industry.

The Chamber of Commerce gets into the act, too, and sends large delegations to Washington every time farm legislation is up to see that every influence is exerted to lower farm supports. Why don't they instead publicize the Congressional report showing 65 billion dollars subsidy to industry since the end of World War II? But they have the effrontery to picture the farmer as the only recipient of government aid so it must be stopped in fairness to them.

The list of those subsidized is almost endless. Minimum wages and unemployment compensation for labor, subsidies to shipping lines, airplane companies, newspapers and magazines are only a few.

Figures made public on needless waste in the armed services expenditures are also rather shocking.

Sixty-five billion dollars spent in "mutual" aid to foreign nations since World War II has been used for any purpose that would put money in circulation there from free travel expense to Americans to botanical gardens and free concerts.

It would be most refreshing to have these folks, who spend so much effort waving the banner of a free unsubsidized economy, cut out the hypocrisy and live according to their recommendation for agriculture.

These Days

Concentration of Control of Money Is Damaging American Economy

BY GEORGE SOKOLSKY (Copyright, 1958)

Back in 1929 and 1930, as is true today, everybody and his grandmother had an explanation for the depression.

I have received a letter from a man who signs himself, Mr. Karol Fahnestock, 109 Randolph Street, Richmond, Indiana, in which he gives a very novel explanation for why things have gone wrong now. The aforesaid Mr. Fahnestock writes:

"It has been the constant yapping of people like you on the red 'menace' baloney along with your anti-communist propaganda that has dulled the democracy in the heart of the American people and killed it, to the extent that the American people have allowed Wall street to take over, lock, stock and barrel and now it is this same Wall St. monopoly in Washington that is really harming America at home and abroad and reducing this nation to the pitiful mess that it is in. This is the truth: This anti-communist yapping has mortally hurt democracy and that is why America is in a mess."

Continuing Protest

Mr. Fahnestock's letter does represent a continuing protest in this country against the power of Wall Street. When Andrew Jackson fought the Bank of the United States, he was expressing the sentiment of the farmer against the stranglehold of the circulation of money by the banking powers, then most characteristically represented by the Biddies of Philadelphia. The same power exists today in a cartel of bankers, brokers, underwriters, heads of life insurance companies, of mutuals and of labor union pension funds who put firms together in mergers, who take firms apart to benefit by the difference between book values and market values and take apart values; who sit on numerous boards of directors so that by interlocking directorships or by other group activities, they dominate the policies of a company or even of an entire industry.

The peril to the country is that they are killing off the smaller manufacturer and the smaller distributor and are socially driving the middle class of this country into the proletariat where they become an element of dissatisfaction and protest. I have often written on this subject because I am convinced that the greatest peril to American capitalism is the concentration of the control of money. Now I find that the Rockefeller report, "The Challenge to America: Its Economic and Social Aspects," reaches much the same conclusion, to wit: "Basic to much of our past economic achievement has been our ability to encourage men with new ideas and new products to establish their own enterprises. Our great industries began as small-scale operations, and the majority of them are still less than 50 years old."

"There is . . . a growing body of evidence that smaller and medium-sized businesses, and particularly manufacturing firms — even those that have successfully established themselves in their industries and have solid prospects for growth — have difficulty in obtaining financing for the expansion of their operations. There is also a probability that inadequate financing reduces the rate at which new firms are established."

Need Long Term Loans

The need is primarily for long-term equity or loan funds. As a result of the inability to obtain capital funds, the opportunity for establishing a new firm, or for

New Church Furnishings Unique

Mr. Thomas Hill, the gentlemanly superintendent of the Appleton Chair and Furniture Factory has designed the entire furnishings of the new Methodist church, consisting of the seating, altar, speaking desk.

The committee was so well pleased with the unique designs that the work was assigned to Mr. Atkinson, the proprietor of the factory.

all having a fine view of the clergyman. The organ and singers will be in the rear and above the head of the speaker, agreeably with the modern method of interior church arrangements.

Under Mr. Hill's auspices, we shall expect to see the handsomest fitting of any church in the State outside of Milwaukee or Madison. Mr. Hoffmann, the contractor for the completion of the church, has a full force of workmen busy daily on the edifice, which is to be finished in the month of September.

25 YEARS AGO Thursday, April 27, 1933

Appleton was assured of an airport for at least the next five years. It was announced by the George A. Whiting airport company, which had arranged to purchase the airport site from Mike Wittman, Menasha, owner of the property.

Appleton Trades and Labor council voted unanimously to support organized farmers in their efforts to secure better prices for their products. A resolution placed the council on record as extending its "cooperation and moral support to the efforts of the organized farmers to obtain better economic conditions for themselves and their dependents."

Gaylord Nelson's Blast At Johnson Mystifying

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — One of the curious events of the passing Wisconsin political scene is the calculated denunciation by the unchallenged candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of one of the chief national leaders of his party at a time of the latter's greatest success and prestige.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, majority leader of the United States senate, has been publicized by the national press and praised by Democrats high and low lately as one of the master parliamentarians of the times. By some tests he is today the leader in fact of the national Democratic party.

But the other day State Sen. Gaylord Nelson, to the surprise of many of his friends and local Democratic politicians, assailed the Texan in language and with reasons usually reserved for the identified Republican enemy.

Nelson said quite bluntly that there are many of the vital issues of the day upon which he disagrees with Sen. Johnson, and that if he is the leader of the party, the Democrats are as guilty as are the Republicans in defaulting on the responsibility for providing leadership for Americans in these times.

WHY?

Why should a local politician, considering all the things he could talk about, choose to talk about the majority leader of the upper house of the national legislature in such scathing terms.

Nelson cited, disagreements with Johnson — tide-lands oil, civil rights, natural gas price regulation, etc.—that are calculated to appeal to the militant left of his own party in Wisconsin.

That element of the Wisconsin party is in the saddle here. If as is said in Washington, the Texan really has his eye upon the White House, this Nelson announcement was equivalent to warning him that he should not stake his candidacy on a filing in the Wisconsin presidential primary two years hence. The liberals here would riddle him.

But it very likely means more, when Nelson chooses to make Johnson the theme of a major speech in his own local campaign for votes.

It has not escaped the notice of most home politicians that Sen. Proxmire and Sen. Johnson have hit it off very nicely since the junior senator rushed off to Washington almost before the votes were counted in the special election last August. Johnson made quite a fuss about the new Wisconsin senator—a little more, some thought, than the occasion deserved. Proxmire has reciprocated. Johnson again clinched their friendship by permitting Proxmire to get what he wanted above all last week—a seat on the key senate agricultural committee.

PROXMIRE BOSS?

Local Democrats have tended to regard Proxmire, as the ranking public official of their faith, and the best known of their campaigners, as a party boss in rank, at least, during the last year.

That fact has annoyed others within the party—including many who regard their credentials as good as those of the peripatetic junior senator. There was the recent fuss about Proxmire's invitation to Johnson to make a speech at the Democratic state convention—which was promptly ruled out. Nelson's public declaration of defiance of Johnson as party leader, echoing as it does the sentiments of many of the most influential of the local working components of the party, may be another oblique announcement that there are other rulers of the party hereabouts than the junior senator.

All this is not to suggest that there is any blow-up imminent, or even in sight. It is merely to say that party harmony is typically more difficult to maintain when a party is prospering or promising to prosper.

Appleton Homemakers club, was to succeed Mrs. A. H. Blankenburg to the presidency in 1958-59. Other officers elected were Mrs. Arnold Schultz vice president, Mrs. Fred Wickman, secretary, and Mrs. Oscar Christianson, treasurer.

Vice President Nixon is in South America to look at economic conditions. You can't blame him. The economic conditions here at home aren't much to look at.

Democratic Sen. Anderson says our military leaders are making "dirty" H-bombs. Democrats are wising up. They now propose to take the bombs to the cleaners — instead of the taxpayers.

Inside Republicans say Ike positively won't resign. Outside Democrats say it's nice to know he has taken a positive position on something.

of fire-water among the Indians with Methodist vigor. When the family left Oneida in 1845, it was stated only one adult male on the reservation had never been drunk, and he yielded soon after. Notwithstanding, Colman formed a temperance society, and a number of the mission members became total abstainers.

In 1845, Colman was transferred to another Indian mission at Brothertown, where he remained for two years, before moving on to Fond du Lac. In 1848 his voice broke from bronchitis, and it was because of that incapacity that he agreed to be Lawrence's first steward providing board at $1.50 per week in Lawrence's first building on the site of the present conservatory of music.

Three of the five Colman children attended Lawrence — Henry who was in the first graduating class of 1857, was the first alumnus to be both a faculty member and a trustee, and who was affiliated with his alma mater for 69 years; Julia, who was enrolled on Lawrence's opening day; and Elihu, class of 1865. The two Colman children who escaped Lawrence via the lumber business in La Crosse, were enthusiastic amateur historians. Charles L. was vice president of the Wisconsin State Historical society and his son Lucius was later president.

After finishing his founding duties at Lawrence (with a group of men "not one of whom could fly an A.B.," son Henry commented), Henry Root Colman held a number of other church assignments in Wisconsin, and for the last 20 years of his life made his home with his youngest son on Elihu, in Fond du Lac.

The Oneida Indians had been persuaded to emigrate from New York to Wisconsin by Episcopal missionary Eleazar Williams, who later announced to the world he was the Lost Dauphin of France. There were three factions in the Oneida tribe — the First Christian, the Second Christian and the Orchard parties. Williams was the spiritual leader of the First Christian group; Colman took over with the Orchard partisans.

The Methodist mission at Duck Creek was a log house (the attic was partitioned off for the Colman children with quilts.) and on each side was a board lean-to for a living room and a woodshed. Once a week Colman saddled his pony and rode 12 miles to Green Bay for supplies, but since his salary was initially $250 per year, the amounts left in Green Bay business houses were not large.

Interpreter Helps

Henry Root Colman preached through an interpreter in his little white frame church. The hymnal was in Mohawk tongue, which the Oneidas understood. "They were great duties at Lawrence (with a group of men "not one of whom themselves in writing music by note," remembered the younger Henry Colman.

On Sunday morning, the congregation was a picturesque sight. The men had abandoned their native garb and wore white-man's clothes, but the women were still wrapped in red and white blankets or large pieces of costly broadcloth. The Indian women further indulged their vanity in high silk hats, with one, two or more wide silver bands ringing the crown.

The younger Colman once reminisced: "The janitor of the church was Moses Cornelius. He had a well-shaped stick, about four feet in length. If any of the army of village canines crept into the church, old Moses's stick was after him, sermon or no sermon."

Becomes Attorney

Elihu was the baby of the family who had become a U. S. district attorney for Eastern Wisconsin, and who spoke for the Republicans in 33 successive political campaigns. It was Elihu who found the elder Colman in the twilight library one winter's day in 1895, apparently dozing. At 95, Henry Root Colman was dead.

At times of death, people remember exceptionally relevant things about the deceased. "He never passed a single day without being dressed," it was solemnly reported in the conference minutes. It was recalled that he came from long-lived stock; his siblings died at 82, 79, and his twin brother at 93. He and his wife had been married for 66 years when she died in 1899.

One of the relevant things was the fact that on the morning Henry Root Colman died, his daughter-in-law heard him speaking aloud to himself in his bedroom. "Bless the Lord, oh my soul, and all that is within me, bless His holy name," was what she heard.

In all of Lawrence college's 111-year history, no one held longer tenure on the faculty than Hiram A. Jones. For 44 years he was master of the classics in the southwest corner of Main hall. Dean Carl J. Waterman of the conservatory of music who retired in 1952 threatened Jones' record with 43 years of service, but he's the only one who has ever come close.

It is due to Jones' longevity that the Lawrence Latin curriculum has required only five department heads in 11 decades, although his successors have exhibited some staying power of their own. Several tenures have run between 20 and 30 years.

Jones came from the east, as did all of the teachers at that time; and was trained at Wesleyan, as were an exceptional proportion of Lawrence teachers at that time.

Meets Romance

The first five years or so of his stay in Appleton must have been fraught with non-professional diversions, for there was a smart young lady named Mary Emily Talmadge who assisted him in classics-while she got her degree. Soon after she was graduated in 1860, they were married and lived out their days in an apple orchard. If Henry and Lucinda Colman of '57 were the first Lawrence student romance, surely Tutor Jones and Miss Talmadge were the first student-faculty liaison!

Although Latin was his life, Hiram A. Jones took a great deal of interest in the practical world as well. He was an alderman for two years, city supervisor for a similar length of time, and even was city superintendent of schools for a while. In one corner of his classroom he ran a book business for students which eventually grew to such size that he gave it over to what was the first student cooperative on any college campus. For a decade he took a turn at being college librarian, and for the last four years of his life he was a college trustee.

Hiram Jones was both kind-hearted and stern. One of his pupils wrote: "Strange mythological stories about his hard dealings were borne homeward by the students to frighten their uninitiated brothers and sisters. It was with considerable misgiving that I first entered his sanctum and beheld him seated on his throne, from whence I expected to see him hurl his thunderbolts in true Jovian fashion. But my fear gave place to love as I learned that this stern old teacher was afflicted with an incurable good will."

Legend sprouted around Hiram Jones as mushrooms after a rain. For years his professor's salary could not encompass the purchase of a greatcoat. He wore an immense shawl about his angular figure, fastened with a gargantuan shawl pin.

'Just a Trifle'

To a student of no great attainment who stopped in on commencement day to say with a miniature of the Arch of Titus in the Roman forum. Let me in-bright eyes: "I feel that I am indebted to you for all I know," Professor Jones replied. "Pray don't mention such a trifle!"

When students stole the Bible shortly before chapel time to confound the faculty reader of the day, Jones took his place calmly behind the lectern and read extended passages from a thick holy-looking tome. It was a work in classical literature, and he was reciting from memory.

Jones hated tardiness with all his soul, and habitually locked late-comers from the classroom. There are only two times on record when he was late. On the first occasion an audacious young lady locked him out and he was serenaded by the mirthful whoops of the class inside.

"The second time he was late he hurried so that he arrived out of breath," reports a student of that day. "He marched to the platform, bowed up his Cicero and said 'Now we will begin'. His head drooped to the desk and he quietly passed away."

Under the leadership of the next man in the Latin department, Professor E. E. Wright, the classroom (which had been draped in crepe after death by mourning students) was converted into a Latin library. Its focal point is a black fireplace, by the Colman-Barber foundation of Rockford, Ill., which is controlled by his descendants. A number of the Colman family from Milwaukee and Rockford were honored guests on the campus that year for the dedication of Lucinda Darling Colman residence hall for women, named for the elder Colman's daughter-in-law.

Comes to Life

Hiram Jones came suddenly to life about 10 years ago during a student fund drive. An eager-beaver undergraduate chairman was making a list of faculty members to receive solicitation literature. There were two Joneses on the fencing staff at the time, but when the mail went out, there were three envelopes — to Anne Jones, George Jones and Hiram Jones. The student chairman, engrossed in copying names off office doors, had included the brass plaque of the Latin library as well!

The names of both Henry Root Colman and Hiram A. Jones are still in the Lawrence college catalog, although it has been 100 and 60 years respectively since they served the school. Hiram's son, Dr. Lyman Asa Jones, of the Lawrence class of '86, contributed a major amount to a chair in classics to bear his father's name in 1965.

The Henry Root Colman chair in mathematics is the newest of Lawrence's 19 chairs. It was established in 1956 and its focal point is a black fireplace, by the Colman-Barber foundation of Rockford, Ill., which is controlled by his descendants.

Ask Nehru to Stay As India's Premier

New Delhi — Leaders of India's ruling congress party drafted a resolution Wednesday urging Prime Minister Nehru to take a holiday but remain as head of the government. The party postponed until tomorrow an emergency session to consider Nehru's request that he be allowed to retire from office at least temporarily to take a rest. He made the request to the party yesterday.

The prime minister repeated the statement at today's cabinet meeting. Newspapers expressed hope that he will continue to lead the government.

With Spaghetti Marinara

Young Spring Chicken Casserole Economical

With the advent of spring-time, meat markets and poultry counters from coast to coast are featuring money-saving specials in young spring chicken. These tender barnyard pullets may have led a short life, but during their brief span they had little right to just pleasingly plump. Now they cluck any complaints. They have been brought to market went to kindergarten in the best of incubators, spent their debutante days in modern-split-level hen coops with controlled heat and ate only the richest of grains and scientifically mixed mash to make them not fat—such a recipe is offered here—Spring Chicken Marinara—a delicious blend of crisp golden freshly killed to insure that quality of succulent perfection demanded at America's dinner table. There are almost as many ways of preparing and serving fowl as there are species of feathered life itself. Many preparation methods differ only with regional tastes. Many are time honored family recipes handed on to succeeding generations. Once in a while a new chicken dish comes on the scene and such a recipe is offered here—Spring Chicken Marinara—a delicious blend of crisp golden

- ### Chicken Marinara
- 1 cup flour
 - 2 teaspoons salt
 - 6 to 8 parts frying chicken or
 - 1 chicken cut in serving pieces
 - 1 cup shortening
 - 1 large can (2 lbs. 3 oz.) tomatoes
 - 2 onions, sliced
 - 1 clove garlic (optional)
 - 1 teaspoon oregano
 - 1 teaspoon sugar
 - 6 mushrooms
 - 1 pound spaghetti
 - Mix flour and salt. Roll chicken in the seasoned flour.

large skillet heat golden shortening over medium heat. Cook the floured chicken until browned, turning pieces frequently so they become golden all over. Add to the skillet the tomatoes, onions, garlic, oregano and sugar. Reduce heat, cover and cook for 20 minutes. Add the mushrooms, cover and continue to cook for 15 minutes longer, or until chicken is tender. Cook the spaghetti in rapidly boiling salted water for about 20 minutes, or until tender. Drain and arrange in a deep oven casserole. Pour sauce over the spaghetti. Arrange the chicken in the casserole. Bake in a 300-degree oven for 15 minutes, or until tender. Serve.

Bacon Curls

To add distinction to a serving platter of a breakfast entree, serve bacon curls. To prepare, loosely roll strips of half strips of bacon and fasten with wooden picks. Panbroil bacon curls the same as bacon strips.

End Fight for Brewery Firm
Vote Out Two Members of Board of Directors
Waukesha — The final round in the battle for control of the Fox Head Brewing company apparently was completed Tuesday when Frank Huber of Milwaukee and Arthur J. Feicht of Chicago were voted out as members of the board of directors.
In the initial stages of the maneuvering last year Feicht and Huber were ousted as officers by other directors. A few weeks later they lost a court action in which they sought to retain their position, and last February they were defeated in a proxy fight for control of the firm.
In a 15-minute meeting Oscar Platt of Waukesha, president and brewmaster, and Raymond Epstein, vice president of a Chicago architectural firm, were elected to the board. Other directors reelected were Edward P. Hoban, Joseph Antonow, Samuel Ballis, and Edward Pinsoff, all of Chicago, and Alexander Morse of New York City.
Paid For Stock
Antonow, who headed the effort that ousted Feicht and Huber, said the firm paid Feicht a total of $118,813 for his 52,806 shares of brewery stock.
Antonow also said the agreement provided that Feicht would draw a $1,100,000 damage suit report showed. There were no filed in U.S. District court in figures for 1956.

New Cookbook for Calorie Counters

"Stay Slim for Life"—what a happy promise for all men and women struggling with reducing diets—is the title of a new cook book by Ida Jean Kain and Mildred B. Gibson (published by Doubleday & Company, Garden City, N. Y., $3.95).

In writing the book and compiling the recipes, the authors remembered that a diet can be effective only if the food tastes good. Wisely they included lean fish and shellfish, rich in easily digested protein, while being unusually low in calories. For example, the seven medium-sized shrimp in this individual Shrimp Salad total only 90 calories. Each serving totals 153 calories.

Modern Menu Makers Take to Canned Meats

Canned meats are coming into their own as an important item on the modern food budget. The wise modern housekeeper has discovered.

As an economical buy they simply can't be beaten. As a menu maker, canned meats can star at any meal with a bit of homemaker ingenuity. These meat varieties are virtual lifesavers when unexpected company arrives for a visit—an entire meal can be whipped up in a jiffy—they can be used as snacks for casual serving—they can perform the miracle of producing the mainstay of any meal from breakfast to late evening buffet.

Those who haven't tried canned meats for more than a casual serving should consider these facts. In the first place, canned meats are nutritious. In the expert canning process, from stove and pour in soup. Secondly, all canned meats have been rigidly inspected to meet government standards. For instance, in each 16-ounce can of corned beef hash there must be a minimum of eight ounces of meat; in the same sized can of stew there must be at least four and a half ounces of meat.

From the viewpoint of versatility, canned meats can be served in a variety of ways. Beef stew may be served bubbling hot, just as it comes prepared in the can—but it also can be served with noodles, biscuits floating on top or teamed with a hot shortbread and salad to make a well-balanced meal.

Corned beef hash, vienna sausages, ready cooked meat loaves, chili con carne and chipped beef are among the canned meat products found today on grocers' shelves. Here are a few recipes that make a culinary production out of their many uses:

Broiled Delight
1 can corned beef hash
3 slices Bermuda onion
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon chili sauce
Slice the contents of a can of beef hash into five portions. Cook Bermuda onion slices in butter until savory. Then place one onion slice under hash slice on broiler pan. Top meat mixture with chili sauce. Broil for five minutes, two to three inches below heat.

Glamor-Glaze Meat Loaf
1 can ready-to-eat meat
Maple syrup or brown sugar
Whole cloves
Remove the meat whole from the can and place in a shallow baking dish. Score the top and insert cloves. Cover with syrup or brown sugar. Bake 15 minutes in a 450-degree oven; reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 15 minutes longer. Serve with vegetables and the rest of the trimmings for even Sunday or company dinners.

Quickie Luncheon
1 can Vienna sausages
1 can bean or pea soup
1 can (soup can for measurement) water or milk
1 tablespoon butter crackers or croutons
salt and pepper to taste
Thin the soup with milk or water. Season well with salt and pepper and place on stove to heat slowly.

Cut Vienna sausages into quarter-inch pieces and fry slowly in butter. Remove soup from stove and pour in soup. Cover the surface of piping hot with crackers or croutons. This makes a hearty luncheon soup, rich with vitamins.

Chili Mac Delicious
Cook enough macaroni to serve your family. Drain and remove to large platter. Heat contents of one or more cans of chili con carne while macaroni is cooking. When bubbly hot, pour over macaroni. Serve immediately. This will become a favorite family dish.

Hors d'Oeuvres
Take the seven uniform Vienna sausages from the can; slice each sausage lengthwise down the middle. Place a piece of cheese in the center, then wrap each sausage in light pie crust dough. Bake in 35-degree oven until dough is nicely browned. Brush dough with cooking oil to heighten color.

Slice ready-to-eat meat loaf into 3-inch strips. Cut strips into cubes. Grill in skillet until crispy brown on the outside. Place a toothpick in each cube and serve with barbecue sauce.

Another interesting hors d'oeuvres is fashioned from of chipped dried beef and cream cheese mix. The cheese mix may be made by combining cream cheese, chopped nuts, chopped olives and a touch of cream to soften into smooth paste. The slices of dried beef are separated. At the widest end of each slice, place a portion of the cheese mix, then roll the dried beef and fasten with a toothpick. A delicious snack food is ready to serve.

Kidney Trouble as Cause of Backaches Termed Nonsense

By Joseph G. Molner, M. D.

Today and tomorrow I'm going to spend this space on a discussion of backache and kidney trouble. There is a great deal of folklore and hokum still circulating on the subject, and I don't care what your grandmother always used to say.

She was probably wrong about this — although I am both content and happy to say that our grandmothers were right about a great many things. The old idea that "kidney trouble" is the cause of backache is nonsense. We know that pain in the general region of the chest may be from the heart, the lungs (pleurisy), wood put a strain on the back muscles, causing pain. The a strained muscle, nervous tension, or 68 other things. We have gotten over the idea that chest pain usually means lung trouble. (Actually, usually it doesn't.) Kidneys may cause back pain. In the majority of cases, however, the cause is not something else. A letter follows:

pain and am confused as I thought diseases of the kidney caused backaches, too. About seven months ago I strained my back carrying a heavy piece of wood. Later the doctor X-rayed my back and said I had a fallen kidney, and he wanted me to wear a tight girdle, and if that didn't help, he would have to operate and put the kidney back in place. Should I have the operation or should I have another doctor examine me? — Miss M. H.

Now with Bright's disease (a kidney disease of considerable seriousness) back pain is far from the usual symptom. Yet on the other hand, some other kidney ailments (fallen kidney or floating kidney), pyelonephritis or pus in the kidney, and kidney stones can cause back pain. Trouble Incidental In M.H.'s case it seems obvious that lifting that piece of wood put a strain on the back muscles, causing pain. The floating kidney was an incidental finding discovered through X-ray. Usually a firm support (girdle) will help the situation. I would not worry about surgery until a girdle has been given a chance. If it fails, that's time enough to have another doctor examine me. Probably Warrant "Dear Dr. Molner: What should I do about my 11-year-old son who has a corn on the bottom of his foot?—Mrs. C." I suspect that it isn't a corn, but probably a plantar wart. These pesky things have a distinct tendency to spread, because they seem to be caused by a virus that has somehow gotten started on the foot. So I suggest that you have your family doctor take a look at it now (or if you have a foot specialist, he'll know what to do about it too) and get rid of it quickly. Such a wart can be stopped, all right, sometimes by one treatment and sometimes by another. In your case, you've been lucky enough and smart enough to notice it early.

Query on Fistula "Dear Dr. Molner. What is a fistula? What causes it? I've already had surgery for one—Mrs. M. B." A fistula is a sort of opening or channel from one structure or surface to another. One that isn't normally there, that is, Most common is a rectal fistula, or opening from the anal canal to the outside surface of the skin. It can occur elsewhere in the body, as in the chest wall after surgery for some things, resulting in a channel from the pleural cavity to the outside chest wall. Since infection of some sort lies behind the formation of a fistula, there's the answer to your question. Clear up any infection to eliminate, effectively, the chance of a recurrence. Outlook Bright for Baseball Comeback

Faster Brand of Ball and Bigger Area of Support Heighten Prospects for Revival of Interest

Post-Crescent Sports Editor

"Can organized baseball make a successful comeback here?" is the most popular sports question of the day in the Fox Cities.

The answers will begin coming in Saturday when the new Three-I league Foxes make their home debut against Cedar Rapids.

At one time, Class D baseball (Wisconsin State league) flourished in Appleton, headquarters of the new Class B Foxes. It attracted as many as $3,000 fans for one season (1940).

But, in 1953, came the State league equivalent of the stock market crash. The bottom fell out—not only for Appleton but for most of the other seven league cities. The Appleton attendance dropped to around 40,000, the club lost money and the club (and the league) suspended operations.

What killed baseball here in 1953? The two most often-advanced reasons are the arrival of the Braves in Wisconsin and the first important impact of television. These phenomena seemed to alter people's leisure-time habits, and their preoccupation with the new diversions left little room in their affections for Class D baseball.

And, it might be added, particularly the kind of baseball that was being played here in '53. It was one of Appleton's poorest teams. An almost endless parade of pitchers, bases on balls and errors left those fans who did come out to the park pretty cold.

Except for 1953, the support aged about 61,000 customers a year. The Appleton total of 670,000 for the 11 years was second only to Green Bay's 682,176.

What are the chances for a return of the "good old days?" They appear to be bright. This time around, the backers of baseball seem to have a number of things going for them that were lacking in 1953. Among them are:

(1) Class B is a far superior brand of baseball to Class D.

given Class D baseball ranged from good to outstanding. Despite the fact that Appleton never won a pennant in its 11 years (1940-53, with a wartime recess) in the league, it aver-

(2) With the expansion of the official area of support to include all of the Fox Cities, there is far greater gate potential.

(3) There is a good deal of evidence that local-level baseball is reawakening.

(4) There seems to be less of the all-consuming interest in the Braves and TV. Many feel that major league and minor league ball can co-exist in the same area. Then, too, the Foxes have been given a scheduling break in their initial year. On only 19 of their 68 home dates will there be a conflict with Braves' games at County stadium. In addition, the 22 late-starting West coast games of the Braves will in many instances give fans time to see a complete "live" game here before the Braves even start playing.

Suder Earns Place In AL Record Book

Former Philadelphia Infield Star Has Spent 23 Years in Baseball

Pete Suder, manager of the Fox Cities' inaugural club in the 3-I league, has spent 23 of his 41 years in professional baseball.

One of the American league's better glove men of the last 15 years, Suder was a key member of the Philadelphia Athletic teams that made several serious pennant bids in the late 1940s.

Three times, Suder led AL second basemen in fielding. The 1948 A's still hold the AL double play record for one season—217. That snappy infield consisted of Ferris Fain, first; Suder, second; Eddie Joost, short; and Eddie Majeski, third.

Suder tied a major league record by participating in five twin killings at second base

May 17, 1950. He also saw some service at short and third in his career with the A's.

Suder committed only 169 errors in 6,594 chances for a .974 lifetime major league fielding mark.

At the plate, Suder compiled a .250 lifetime average. His best hitting mark was .286 in 1953.

Suder ended a 14½-year major league career—all with the A's—in 1954. In the next two seasons, he served as a scout. His first managerial experience came last year when he directed the Senators' affiliate in the Class B Carolina league. The club, which experienced all sorts of difficulties—financial and otherwise—was transferred from Kinston to Wilson during the season.

3-I Loop May Return Baseball To Lofty Position in Rochester

BY DALE JENSEN
Post-Bulletin Sports Editor

Rochester, Minn. — Baseball, once king in this southern Minnesota community, has been granted a reprieve from certain death with the coming of the professional Class B Three-I league this year.

For years, the city that the famous Mayo brothers helped build around their equally famous medical center, has watched with growing agony the death of what once was called the best semi-pro baseball circuit in the country—the Southern Minnesota Baseball league. Gone are the Moose Skowrons, Sam "Red" Jones, Harry Elliotts, Jerry Kindalls, Paul Giels and many, many others in the pro ranks today.

High salaries paid to unproductive old pros mixed with ex-professionals looking for a fast buck finally proved too much for a league that once would have rated a standing among Class A professional circuits.

Last year the citizens of Rochester finally got sick of it and in an effort to save the national pastime turned their eyes and efforts to establishing a new baseball dynasty. Thus, Rochester joined the nation's oldest Class B circuit with new vigor.

The Rochester Area Baseball, Inc., board of directors was formed at a public gathering of the city's leading business and professional people, as

With able direction and inspiring cooperation from all sides the board has conducted a successful drive for pre-season funds; has acquired a vigorous business manager; picked up a Kansas City Athletics' affiliation; and last, but not least, conducted a highly successful ticket drive prior to the opening of the season.

Entertainment is a by-word in Rochester, and baseball actually just fills in the gaps of a year-round program of successful indoor amateur hockey, professional wrestling, civic theater presentations, ballet, ice shows, basketball, tennis, golfing, fishing and boating in the nearby vicinity and many other cultural activities too numerous to mention.

The city's 37,000 citizens, supplemented by the thousands of transients who visit the city during the year to take advantage of the fine medical facilities, take full advantage of a cultural program that gives al-

Foxes Top All Class B Clubs in Drawing Area

The Fox Cities Foxes have the largest drawing area of any of the 20 baseball clubs in the three Class B leagues in the country.

The seven municipalities making up the Fox Cities have a population of at least 105,000 and possibly as many as 115,000, according to recent estimates. The city having the next largest population (88,000) is Winston-Salem, N.C., in the Carolina league.

The Carolina league has eight teams while the Three-I league and the Northwest league, made up of cities in Washington, Oregon and Idaho, each have six teams. The current estimated populations of the other Three-I league cities are Davenport, Iowa, 80,000; Cedar Rapids, Iowa, 75,000; Green Bay, 58,000; Rochester, Minn., 37,000, and Burlington, Iowa, 35,000.

The Carolina league cities and their populations (based on 1950 census) are Winston-Salem, N.C., 88,000; Greensboro, N.C., 74,000; Durham, N.C., 71,000; Raleigh, N.C., 66,000; the combined cities of High Point and Thomasville, N.C., 51,000; Danville, Va., 35,000; Burlington, N.C., 25,000, and Wilson, N.C., 23,000.

The Northwest league cities and their populations are Salem, Ore., 43,000; the Tri-City club of Kennewick, Richland and Pasco, Wash., 42,000; Yakima, Wash., 38,000; Eugene, Ore., 36,000; and Lewiston, Idaho, and Wenatchee, Wash., each with 13,000.

Few Training Rules

Pete Reiser, Green Bay manager, says he's not going to establish a lot of training rules for his Bluejays.

"I believe ball players make their own rules," says Reiser. "I don't want to be a detective. After all, this is their stepping stone — they only get out of it what they put into it."

Rhubarb Over Bribes Ended First Pro Era

1891 Club, in First Season,
Dropped 12 Straight to Lose Seemingly Cinched Pennant

BY JIM NEWCOMB
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A last-day rhubarb in which charges of bribes flew fast ended Appleton's first professional baseball era.

The time was 1891. The place Marinette. The principals the Marinette and Green Bay entries which were fighting the Appleton club for the Wisconsin State league pennant.

Marinette combatants accused the Green Bay club of offering a $100 bribe to one of their stalwarts.

Green Bay partisans retorted with similar charges against Marinette. Seems about mid-season a Green Bay first baseman was sent packing for developing sticky fingers at the site of Marinette money.

The loud talk, together with some suspicions a few Appleton players aroused among their own club officials, generally was blamed for Appleton's withdrawal from the league. The team had played exactly one year. Its record was 48 won, 41 lost.

George "Stormy" Hogleiver, right fielder with the club and later one of Appleton's most popular players and managers, says there were reasons enough for suspecting some of the Appleton players.

The club had the pennant all but cinched, going into the final three weeks of play, he explains, when suddenly it dropped 12 straight.

The catcher began dropping balls when he had runners out at the plate by several feet. The third baseman began overthrowing not only the first baseman, but the ball park as well.

Hogleiver, later a major leaguer with Cincinnati and Indianapolis, rates Joe Wright, center fielder of the 1891 club as the best ballplayer fielded by an Appleton pro team in the pre-1940 years.

Wright a couple of years later stuck with Pittsburgh in the National league where he hit .300 a few seasons and then disappeared from baseball. Wright, say Hogleiver, not only could hit, but he had a good arm and could "run like hell."

Jacob "Calamity Jake" Case was another standout upon which Manager and Captain Charley Faatz could call in that 1891 season, Hogleiver says. Case, from Chittanooga, N. Y., won 29, lost 5.

Case quit baseball to take a job with Singer Sewing Machine company, a move which Hogleiver urged him to take.

Shumway Good Hogleiver maintains "Doc" Shumway, the shortstop of the 1891 club, also was a top-rate prospect who quit the game for other pursuits. He became a doctor of medicine at Buffalo, N. Y.

Others of the 1891 team who made a lasting impression on Hogleiver are Fred "Crazy" Schmidt, an outfielder, and Will Rogers, a pitcher.

Hogleiver by his own estimate of his travels reached the big leagues by fighting his way up. He started with Hamilton, Ohio, of the Tri-State league in 1888, went to Ottumwa, Ia., of the Three-I league in 1890, Kansas City of the Western (now American league) in 1890, came to Appleton June 18, 1891, played the 1892 season with St. Paul, the 1893 season with Birmingham, Ala., the 1894 season with Sioux City and 1895 with Cincinnati.

A couple of seasons later, Hogleiver, a hometown product, had the Cincy fans on his back, and went to Indianapolis where he stayed until 1903 when the Western league became the American league. When the league was dispersed he refused to report to Boston and turned

Reiser's Career Is Colorful

Bluejay Manager Youngest Player To Win NL Bat Title

Harold "Pistol Pete" Reiser, manager of the Green Bay Bluejays in their inaugural Three-I league season this year, has had one of the most colorful careers in modern major league baseball history.

The youngest player ever to win the National league batting championship, Reiser was carried off the field 11 times during 21 seasons in the minors, three seasons of Army ball and 10 years in the majors.

Knocked Unconscious

Reiser, who is now 38, won the National league batting title in 1941, when he was 21 years old, with a mark of .343. His former manager, Leo Durocher, says that "No doubt about it, Pete was the greatest young ballplayer I ever saw and the best I ever had with the possible exception of Willie Mays."

Joins Brooks in '48

Reiser joined the Dodgers in 1940 after several seasons in the minors and stayed with Brooklyn until 1943 when he entered military service. He played with the Dodgers again from 1946 through 1948 when he was traded to Boston. He wound up his National league career in 1951 with Pittsburgh and his major league tenure with Cleveland the next season.

He remained out of baseball till 1955 when he managed Thomasville, Ga., in the Class D Georgia-Florida league, finishing fifth. He moved to Kokomo, Ind., in the Class D Midwest league in 1956 where his club finished last. But, Reiser guided Kokomo to the circuit flag last season.

Reiser and his wife are the parents of two daughters.

3-I League Good Training Ground For the Majors

Eight Regulars on Milwaukee Club Played in Class B Loop

The Three-I league, in which the Fox Cities Foxes are currently starting their first season, has become one of baseball's best proving grounds for future major league stars.

More than 65 alumni of the Class B circuit are established players on the 16 major league clubs including eight regulars on the World Champion Milwaukee Braves.

Braves regulars with Three-I backgrounds include: pitchers Bob Buhl, Lew Burdette, Don McMahon and Warren Spahn; infielders Johnny Logan and fielder Willie Jones performed in the Three-I league as well as Ted Kazanski, Bob Miller, Roy Smalley and Joe Lonnett.

Cincinnati's Stan Palys, Bob Purkey and Pete Whisenant are Three-I alumni as are Los Angeles' Carl Erskine, Danny McDevitt, John Roseboro and Al "Rube" Walker.

Other National leaguers who once were on Three-I rosters include: St. Louis' Morris Martin and Billy Muffett, Pittsburgh's Vern Law and Frank Thomas and San Francisco's Ray Crone.

Felix Mantilla, outfielder Wes Covington and catcher Del Crandall.

All but Burdette played at the Braves' former farm at Evansville. Lew performed at Quincy.

Made Jump

Crandall made the jump from Evansville directly to the Braves while Covington climbed from the Three-I loop to the majors within a year and a half.

Others who were on the Braves' 1958 spring roster who played in the Three-I circuit included: Harry Hanenbrink; Earl Hersh; Joe Morgan; Bob Botz; Dale Hendrickson; Lee Maye; Chet Nichols; Don Nottebart; Claude Raymond; Vic Rehm; Ray Ripplemeyer; Humberto Robinson and Al Spangler.

The Chicago Cubs also have a large group of Three-I alumni on their roster including Dick Drott, star sophomore righthander. Others are: Jim Brosnan, Frank Ernaga, Walt Moryn, Sammy Taylor, and John Goryl.

Former Phillies

Several of the top players on the Philadelphia Phillies — catcher Stan Lopata and inlicated Crandall's feat of jumping from the Three-I circuit to the big show was Detroit's Harvey Kuenn. Signed off the University of Wisconsin campus in the spring of 1952, Kuenn went to Davenport where he hit .340. His next stop was the Tigers.

Bunning at Davenport

Another Tiger who played for Davenport is star pitcher Jim Bunning, brother-in-law of Appleton St. Mary Coach Gene Clark. More Tigers with Three-I experience include: Hank Aguirre, Lou Sleater and "Red" Wilson.

The Chicago White Sox have a large contingent of one-time Three-I performers. They are:

Many 3-I Loop Graduates Dot Majors' Rosters

Kansas City's Murray Dickson, Woody Held, and Bill Tuttle.

The American league champion New York Yankees have a good representation of one-time Three-I players including: Hank Bauer, Tony Kubek, Don Larsen, Tom Sturtivant, and Marv Throneberry.

Half Dozen Senators

Washington, the parent club of the Foxes, have a half dozen players who have had Three-I experience along the way. These include: Bud Byerly, "Whitey" Herzog, Bob Malkmus, Herb Plews, Roy Sievers and Jerry Snyder.

Boston's Bill Renna was also in the Class B circuit at one time.

Two National league managers — Bob Scheffing of the Cubs and "Birdie" Tebbetts of the Redlegs — were Three-I league players as were a pair of senior loop umpires. Arbiters: "Dusty" Boggess played third base for Springfield in 1925 while Tom Gorman pitched for Clinton in 1939 and 1940.

More than 130 Three-I graduates were in major league training camps this spring. 69 in National league clubs' camps and 63 in American loop camps.

Braves Set School At Cedar Rapids

Milwaukee — The Milwaukee Braves announced Tuesday their chief Midwest scout, Eddie Dancisak, will conduct a baseball school for boys 16 to 21 years of age July 10-11 at Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Green Bay Belonged To 2 Class D Loops

Green Bay's entry into the Class B Three-I league this season gives the city the fastest-caliber baseball it has ever had.

Green Bay was a member of the old Wisconsin - Illinois league between 1905 and 1920 and of the Wisconsin State league from 1940 until 1953 (except for three years during World War II).

Both circuits were Class D loops.

Majors' Scouts Follow Three-I

Most performers in the Three-I league advance, if they're good enough, through regular farm system channels. However, the league is also a happy hunting ground for major league scouts.

Loop President Hal Totten reports that "one scout told me 'I see more ballplayers here than I do in the Western (Class A) league.' He said 'I can see the Western in three days but it makes it interesting.'" takes me three weeks to cover the Three-I."

"As a matter of fact," Totten continues, "most baseball men rate this league on a virtual par with the Western, though it has a higher classification. The Three-I has always been a tough league—a good pitchers league."

Asked what's responsible for the happy situation Totten replies "Frankly, the Braves always load up their club in this league. Then, as a result, the Dodgers and the White Sox and the rest of them are almost compelled to follow suit. If it makes it interesting."

Many Stars Have Played on Goodland Field

Fans Watched Future Major Leaguers Get Their Start

Part of minor league baseball fans' pleasure is to watch major leaguers-to-be in action and be able to say later on, "I saw him play when —". In the 11 years of Class D Wisconsin State loop baseball, fans saw a good many young stars who were destined to climb the ladder to the big time. Starting Saturday, they'll get the chance again as some of the big leaguers of the future begin playing Class B 3-1 league ball at Goodland field.

Seerey Hits 4

Among Appleton's State league players who eventually made the major league grade were Pat Seerey, Mike Garcia, Billy Klaus, John Van Cuyk, George O'Donnell and Joe Tipton. Of these, only Garcia, Cleveland pitcher, and Klaus, Boston infielder, are still active in the majors today.

"Fat" Pat Seerey, during his White Sox days, became one of only two American leaguers in history to hit four home runs in one game. The other is Lou Gehrig. Seerey hit 31 homers for Appleton in 1941, a mark just one short of the all-time State league record, set by Fond du Lac's Fred Collins.

Garcia, a 10-year man in the majors, has appeared in one World Series.

Among the Green Bay Bluejays who played here in their State league tenure were outfielder Andy Pafko and catcher Russ Nixon, who are still active in the majors, with Milwaukee and Cleveland, respectively.

Hank Bauer, who broke in with Oshkosh in 1941, is still a regular with the American league champion Yankees.

Tom Acker, currently on the Cincinnati pitching staff, also played at Goodland field in an Oshkosh uniform. He holds the all-time State league record of retiring 24 straight batters.

The Chicago White Sox' Bill Fischer compiled a glossy 14-3 record while performing for the Wisconsin Rapids State league club in 1948.

The Sheboygan club produced about a half-dozen players who either are or have been in the majors. One of them is the Cubs' Walt Moryn, who holds the State league record for runs scored in one season (138).

Dick Gray, Los Angeles third baseman, who has gotten off to a good hitting start this year, was named the State league's rookie of the year in 1950.

Dodger catchers John Roseboro and Joe Pignatano once played for Sheboygan, as did pitcher Connie Grob and outfielder Ray Shearer.

Shearer, who has been optioned out by the Braves, holds the State league RBI record, with 137; and the total bases mark,

Only Emergencies Have Halted Play In 3-1 League

Cedar Rapids, Iowa — While the Three-1 league is entering the fifty-eighth year since its founding, indicating seven years in which it did not operate, only national emergencies of the gravest nature have caused it to suspend play. And, in the only two years in which it did not finish a season that with 300. Grob has had pitching chances with both Washington and the Dodgers.

Fond du Lac players who made the big leagues are outfielder Jim Dyck, Ron Blackburn and Lou Skizas. Blackburn is now on the Pittsburgh mound staff, while Skizas is a Detroit outfielder.

A Janesville's contribution was Cliff Aberson, onetime Chicago Cub outfielder.

was started, a national emergency also existed.

These emergencies took the form of two world wars and a national depression. In 1917, due to the start of the first World war, the League suspended operations and also did not open its games in 1918. But it resumed in 1919.

Again in 1932, at the tremendous impact of the depression, the League did not finish the season. The loop did not operate in 1933 and 1934 and after a rough 1935 season it also remained inactive in 1936.

Came the second world war, and the league — under the particular pressure of national executive persuasion and common sense — did not field teams in 1943, 1944, and 1945. Otherwise it has been a constant stronghold of our national pastime.

ed down offers from John McGraw of the New York Giants.

Hogreiver stayed with Indianapolis of the American association two years, then shifted to Des Moines where he was a playing manager. Three seasons later, he was on the go again, this time to Pueblo, Colo.

Then, he came back to Appleton — but that's slightly ahead of the story.

Back in 1909, John Conway, Joseph Koffend, J. D. Plank and other interested Appleton people got up enough cash to buy out the Wausau franchise in the Wisconsin-Illinois league, and Appleton was back in organized baseball.

The 1909 team finished third. The 1910 edition won the pennant, only Appleton pro club ever to win the pennant.

"Red" Murphy, a pitcher who later had a trial with the St. Louis Cardinals, was the star of the league in 1910. And Hogreiver, back in Appleton to "retire," was pressed into outfield duty by Pat Ryan, a friend and incidentally, one of Appleton's best all-time amateur players.

Brautigam, Sylvester Ed Lavey was manager of the 1909 and 1910 clubs. On the team, a Brooklyn farm club, were Pat Brady, Bo Miller, George Brautigam, another all-time Appleton great, Cosgrove and Harry Sylvester, still another all-time, all-star performer.

Miller made it to Louisville and lives in Akron, Ohio, now. Sylvester got a trial with the White Sox before they found out about his trick football knee and Brautigam was just too small, but only in height, not ability, Hogreiver reports.

Typical of the success of the 1910 team is that fact that it drew 2,243 fans to the fairgrounds at the west end of W. College avenue, site of the city ball park after a field near present city park was scrapped.

Van Patter Standout Hogreiver was manager of the 1911 and 1912 teams. Both finished third. The 1912 season was the last Hogreiver played. He injured a shoulder in a fall that year.

Standout on both clubs was Jimmy Van Patter, a Lawrence student like Sylvester, who gave up pitching to take over his family's farm near Hayward. Sylvester, Brautigam, Miller, Cosgrove, O'Brien, Hett, Loos, Zabel, Ulrich and Scanlon were other team members.

Hogreiver gave up the manager's reins to Cristall in 1913. The team finished last, losing 112 while winning 40. Sylvester was on the squad. So was Cosgrove, but the rest of the lineup was changed from the preceding two seasons.

Sylvester went to the White Sox after the season and was sent down to New Orleans of the Southern Association where he was called "a sensation."

Brautigam became manager in 1914, the last season the Appleton club was in the W-I league. He hit .303, Tiffany, a giant first baseman, hit .311. It was about all the club showed. Attendance down to 15,043.

The period between the 1891 and 1909 clubs is interesting on-ly from the standpoint that the independent semi-pro Appleton team, led by Clarence Currie, copped the mythical state championship in 1901. Currie, a pitcher later with Cincinnati, won 27 and lost 4.

The 1940 Papermakers started dismally, finished the same way.

They lost their first exhibition game to the Menasha Falcons 7-3, and finished in the league cellar. The Falcons, it should be pointed out, used Connie Mack Berry, former pro football and basketball star and a standout hurler, on the mound. Bob LaGrow twirled a 12-hit-ter in the 1940 opener, but won anyway, with the Green Bay Bluejays' hurler "Deacon" Delmore, now a National league umpire, the loser.

Van Cuyk Benny Peck, Menasha catcher, and Eric Kitzman, later the Menasha High school coach, were on the Appleton 1940 roster, briefly. Johnny Van Cuyk, first of two successful pitching brothers from Kimberly, also was on hand.

While Appleton fans subsequently got a look at about two dozen future big leaguers who cavorted in the league in the next 10 seasons (time out for the war), they saw no pennant winners.

With Cleveland, St. Louis Browns, the Braves and the Phillies furnishing player talent, Appleton teams finished last in 1940, third in 1941, fourth in 1942, fifth in 1946 and seventh in 1948, sixth in

Cedar Rapids Hopes To Shake Long 2nd-Division Jinx

Switches From Dodgers to Braves; Monchak Has Won 2 'D' Pennants

Cedar Rapids, Iowa — Alex Monchak, fresh from winning two straight Class D pennants at Wellsville, N.Y., is building his Cedar Rapids Class B club around five players who helped Evansville win the 1957 flag in the 3-I league.

Cedar Rapids will help the Fox Cities Foxes inaugurate their home season Saturday night.

This is the first Cedar Rapids season under the Milwaukee working agreement, and local fans are hoping to break the jinx that has kept Cedar Rapids from having a first-division team since the city returned to pro ball in 1949. The Dodgers, who supplied players the last three seasons, gave the city three straight last-place teams.

4 Champs in 6 Years
The Braves gave Evansville four champions in the last six years. Back from the 1957 Evansville club are:

Horace Garner, Three-I batting champ the last two seasons who conservatively estimates his age as 32. He hit .354 and .334 the last two years, and has hit below .300 only one of the seven seasons he's been in pro ball. Horace hit 20 homers for Evansville last year and should surpass that figure in the Cedar Rapids park, which is smaller.

Joe Trenary, fleet Evansville center fielder who hit .243 and stole 12 bases.

First Baseman Bill Moss, who played 106 games in the outfield for Evansville in 1958, batting only .197.

Pitcher Mike Dalton, 20-year-old right-hander who had an 8-6 mark.

Both catchers are former Evansville players. The No. 1 man is Sid Goldfader, who hit .239 there last year. Reserve is Wayne Cummings, veteran who hit .296 for Evansville and Quincy in 1956. Cummings was out of pro ball last year.

The third outfielder is a remarkable rookie, Alfredo "Alie" Reynolds of the Dominican Republic. Monchak rates him the fastest man on the team, and his hitting was the feature of spring training at Waycross, Ia.

Led League in RBIs
In addition to Moss, the other infielders are: second baseman Bob Knoop, who hit .261 at Lawton in class D; shortstop Doug Clayton, who hit .231 for McCook in the class D Nebraska rookie circuit, and third baseman Dick Selinger, who hit .310 and 16 homers, leading the class D New York-Pennsylvania league with 100 RBIs.

Aside from Dalton, the pitching staff contains men who had seasons in classes C and D last year. One other exception is a right-handed rookie, Dave Martens of Arlington, Mass.

The other three right-handers are Louis DeLeon, promising Puerto Rican who had a 17-5 mark for Monchak's Wellsville team in 1957, and won this season's opener against Rochester; Ernie Christoff, 10-5 at Waycross in class D; and Richard Ramont, 3-3 at McCook in class D.

Monchak has four southpaws: Cecil Burford, 2-7 at Boise in class C; Robert E. Lee 9-7 at Eau Claire in class C; Bill Hamilton, 12-9 at Eau Claire, and

Cedar Rapids Men Travel to Rochester

Forty Cedar Rapids businessmen, anxious to welcome Rochester into the Three-I league this season, chartered a bus for Jim King, 5-3 at McCook in class D.

Monchak, who had the traditional "cup of coffee" in the majors, played 19 games for the Phillies in 1940. As an infielder, he played in leagues of every classification but no longer considers himself a playing manager at 39.

Alex has been managing nine seasons, finishing lower than fourth only twice. A native of Bayonne, N. J., he is married, and has two children. His baseball career was interrupted by 4 years of service during World War II.

Wednesday evening's Rochester home opener against Cedar Rapids.

The businessmen spent the entire day in Rochester, talking baseball, and then attended the game where they had a section of seats reserved in back of the Cedar Rapids dugout.

most everyone what he or she wants out of life.

"Pill Hill," home of the city's wealthy medical and business personnel has lost much of its color in the past few years with the advent of a new type of worker and a new type of industry.

The decision to locate a huge International Business Machines plant here has changed the city that much.

IBM thus has taken over a share of community leadership along with the Mayo clinic as a result of the decision to build a multi-million dollar plant here that eventually will employ 5,000 persons.

The result has made a tremendous difference, not only in the growth of the city, but in the basic composure of the city's government and social units. All of it is helping to bring baseball back to the Queen city.

Park Seats 4,500

The A's comparatively new stadium and bleachers will seat approximately 4,500 fans.

Pilot of the A's this year will be 39-year-old former minor league catcher Burl Storie, a member of the Kansas City organization for three seasons. Storie has 15 years of minor league catching experience behind him, including seven years in Class AA competition. Last year he directed the Class B Abilene, Texas, club of the Big State league to a second place finish in the first half of the season and a fourth place spot in the second half. His clubs have never finished below fourth.

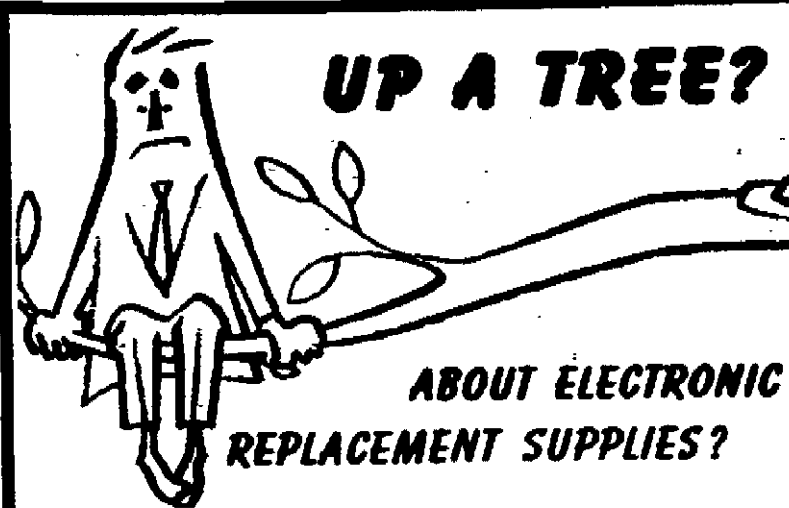

The year before he piloted the Seminole, Okla., "Cinderella Team" to the championship of the Sooner State league in the last six weeks of the season after the club almost folded in the spring.

The Kansas City A's have provided Rochester with a roster of two and 3-year pro veterans who have proved in that time that they have the potential to move up. Several are considered major league prospects.

Infield candidates include second baseman Bob Travers, and Tony DeGennaro, 322 in 279 at Crowley, La., in the Class D Rookie league with Class C Evangeline league; the Nebraska State league third sacker Paul Rawl, 229 at championship Grand Island Mattoon, Ill., in the Class D club. In the outfield, Storie has left-fielder Dave Gorrie, 200 with McCutcheon, 290 at Pocatello, Idaho, in the Class C Pioneer league; utility man Lon Braithwaite, 308 at Abilene; first baseman Roy Sceray, 286 with Seminole.

Slated for catching duties are man John Cunningham, 285 at Rick Rogers, 230 at Pocatello, Mattoon.
